Farmer Killed When Tractor Overturns

MACHINE PINS RICHLAND MAN ON HILLSIDE

Harvey Lozier, 31, Victim of Accident East of Butler; Wife Finds Body.

SUFFERS BROKEN NECK

Cultivating Field on Farm of Neighbor When Tractor Topples on Him.

A Worthington township farmer, Harvey Lozier, 31, was instantly killed yesterday afternoon when a tractor which he was operating on a farm east of Butler, overturned on a steep hillside, pinning him beneath it.

Lozier's body was found at 3:30 p. m. by his wife who had been waiting for her husband in a distant field. When he failed to appear, she went in search for him and discovered his body under the overturned tractor.

Turned on Slope.

While there were no witnesses to the accident, Dr. J. A. Reed of Butler, who was called to the scene, said that it appeared that Lozier was turning the tractor around on the slope when the heavy machine toppled over, hurling the driver beneath it. He said Lozier's neck was broken.

Lozier had been cultivating a field on the Wadell farm which adjoins his property two miles east of Butler.

Surviving are his mother, Mrs. Jane Lozier, his wife, Glorene, and three daughters, Mary Alice, Lula Jane and Betty Jean.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Saturday at the Perrysville Baptist church with Rev. George Schrack pastor, officiating Burial will be in Greenlawn cemetery at Perrysville.

2 Injured In Traffic.

In automobile accidents in Mansfield yesterday, police reported two persons treated at the General hospital for minor injuries.

They said that John Vaneff, 13, of 162 Oak Hill road, was treated at the hospital for cuts and bruises when the machine in which he was riding with Dwight McCready, 501½ West Fourth street, hit a rut and overturned in South park at 8 p. m. yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hunt, 110 Grant street, were treated for minor injuries sustained when the car in which they were riding with Harvey Donocoes, 26 Small avenue, collided with a machine operated by Lewis Stambaugh, 21 Gettings place. The accident occurred at 10 p. m. yesterday at South park and Diamond street.

Cabinet Shuffle Ousts Jap Foreign Minister

Hirota Removed, Status of Premier Shaky; Army Changes Loom.

(By International News Service)

TOKYO—A month-long struggle to iron out differences within the Japanese cabinet resulted today in the removal of Foreign Minister Koki Hirota, and his replacement by General Kazuo Ugaki.

Announcement of Ugaki's appointment to the new post came in the midst of a widespread cabinet shuffle which may eventually extend to Premier Prince Fumimaro Konoye himself

As soon as the shake-up was completed, Konoye visited Emperor Hirohito at 5 p. m. to present his revised cabinet list. The new cabinet will be installed at 7:30 p. m.

Returned to Cabinet.

Baron Sadeo Araki, former war minister and chief exponent of the militant cult of Arakiism, returned to the government in the post of minister of education.

Seihin Ikeda, well-known industrialist, took over the finance and commerce portfolios, replacing Okinobu Kaya and Shinji Yoshino.

Araki replaced Marquis Koichi Kido, who in turn remained as minister of welfare, a post he had previously held concurrently.

Other important changes were to be announced in the near future, it was believed, perhaps affecting the war and naval ministries.

For a time internal dissension over who should be named war minister, or whether General Hajime Sugiyama should remain in that post, delayed Konoye's visit to the palace.

Informed quarters said that if a "certain official" under consideration obtained the post, it would mean another shake-up of the highest commanders of the Nipponese forces stationed in China.

Foreign Minister Koki Hirota of Japan, who was removed from his position today in a cabinet shake-up, believed to result from dissatisfaction with the progress of Japan's campaign in China.

Wins 'Promotion.'

Powerful behind-the-scenes forces resulted in the ascendance of General Ugaki to the foreign ministry.

It was reported that Hirosi Saito, present Japanese envoy to the United States, will replace present Vice-Foreign Minister Horinouchi.

The shake-up brought definitely to light the fact that a cabinet "crisis" has existed in Tokyo from the time Konoye's "ill health" became worse following the heavy expansionist demands made by military officials.

PRODUCERS TO SEEK HIGHER MILK PRICES

Independents Protest Against 'Unreasonable' Sanitation Requirements.

ASKS ASSOCIATION'S AID

3-Man Committee Named to Get Fewer Restrictions; 115 Attend Meeting.

Protesting what they described as "too many unreasonable sanitation requirements for the prices we're getting," independent milk producers in the Mansfield area last night named a three-member committee to seek better prices and fewer restrictions through the Richland County Milk Producers association.

Approximately 115 members and non-members of the association met at the courthouse and sparred for nearly three hours. Near the close of the meeting, Clarence Mowry, Springfield township, head of the producers' association, quelled threats of a milk strike, voiced only by a few farmers, and offered the co-operation of the association.

Sell to Dairies Here.

Most of the smaller producers in the county area sell to dairies in Mansfield where the product is pasteurized and retailed as grade "A" milk. Grade "B" is the highest rating these producers can obtain for their raw milk, it was explained. Approximately 20 larger producers in the county are equipped to sell grade "A" raw milk, but none of them attended last night's session.

Named at the suggestion of Charles Laser of Bloominggrove township, who presided at the meeting, the committee was instructed to meet with directors of the producers association to plan a campaign satisfactory to both groups.

Hit Board's Oppression.

Members of the committee are John Swisher, Franklin township; Charles Pittenger of near Shelby, and Roy Kirkpatrick, Jackson township. All of them had voiced protests to the alleged "oppression" by the Mansfield health board and lack of co-operation from the producers' association.

Less than a half dozen independent producers said they

Charges Answered

Ousted TVA Chairman Dr. Arthur E. Morgan set the congressional TVA inquiry off to a rapid start yesterday with a lengthy statement, a 40,000-work blast at the other two directors, Harcourt E. Morgan and David Lilienthal, and their policies. They were to answer today.

WASHINGTON—(AP)— David E. Lilienthal, Tennessee Valley authority director, testified before a congressional committee today that Arthur E. Morgan, former TVA chairman, tried to "defeat and obstruct the authority" in litigation involving its constitutionality.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON —Harcourt A. Morgan, a Tennessee Valley Authority director, today charged that former TVA Chairman A. E. Morgan conducted "a campaign of dissent and obstruction" to discredit the TVA program.

Testifying before a joint congressional inquiry committee Harcourt Morgan, now TVA chairman, asserted that A. E. Morgan had gone beyond "proper limits" in disagreeing with other members of the TVA board and had "seriously obstructed the work of this agency of the federal government."

Charges 'Collusion.'

A. E. Morgan testified before the congressional committee yesterday, making lengthy charges of "collusion, conspiracy and mismanagement" against H. A. Morgan and the other TVA director, David E. Lilienthal.

Reading a prepared statement to the committee while Lilienthal and A. E. Morgan sat nearby, the present TVA chairman asserted:

"The directors of the authority pledge the committee our complete co-operation to the end that all of the facts may be obtained."

Referring to himself and Lilienthal, the 70-year-old witness asserted "We assume the committee desires to hear us on the charges that Arthur Morgan has made, and also on our charge that Dr. Morgan, while a member of the board, seriously obstructed and interfered with the board's

HENLEIN TELLS WHAT HE WANTS

Demands Local Autonomy for Nazi Minority, Plebiscite If Czechs Reject It.

(By United Press)

LONDON—A full outline of the demands of the German minority in Czechoslovakia, backed by a vigorous defense of the justice of the Sudeten German cause, was published today by the Daily Mail in an interview with Konrad Henlein, minority leader.

Henlein demanded local autonomy for the Sudeten German area, with national and international problems left in the hands of the central government. In return he offered the government the loyal co-operation of the country's 3,232,000 Germany. But if it were rejected, he continued, the alternative would be a plebiscite asking members of the German minority whether they wanted to be Czechoslovak or German citizens. In that event, the result would be a 98 per cent vote for Germany, he said.

The interview was the first that Henlein had given during the central European crisis and it seemed to be the most important pronouncement made during the long period of tension.

"The solution of the Sudeten question in Czechoslovakia must be found by next fall," Henlein said emphatically. "The political fermentation of this country is poisoning the whole central European situation. If it were to continue, it might before long lead to a war that would be universally ruinous."

"It is to early to say much. I hope for the success of the discussions which have been begun between myself and Premier Milan Hodza. But I am determined that I shall never deserve the reproach of not having done my best."

TRAIN KILLS BOY, 10

COLUMBUS—(UP)—Grover McKinney, 10, of Mt Sterling, died today in a hospital here of a skull fracture received when he was struck by an automobile on Route 3 near Mt Sterling while he watched a railroad train. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. David McKinney.

Love-Pact Killing Trial Ends

Psychiatrists were the last defense witnesses in the New York city trial of Donald Carroll, charged with slaying his 18-year-old sweetheart, Charlotte Matthiesen. They testified that he was in a state of emotional intoxication when he killed Charlotte in what was to have been a suicide pact. He "lost his nerve" when it was time to turn the gun on himself. Top picture shows Donald in court with his attorney, Sidney Rosenthal. Bottom picture show's Donald's mother on her way to the trial, escorted by a friend.

Defense Rests Case In Love-Pact Killing

Both Were Insane at Time of Shooting, Say Alienists.

NEW YORK—The defense rested today at the trial of Donald Carroll after two psychiatrists had testified that when the 16-year-old boy fired a bullet into Charlotte Matthiesen's heart he was insane

And as Charlotte died she, too, was insane, the alienists agreed, holding that both boy and girl ceased to be mentally normal the moment they decided on a suicide pact.

Following brief testimony by state alienists, both sides were to sum up in Queens county court.

State Asks Chair.

The state is asking the electric chair for Donald, who admitted he shot and killed Charlotte after they had arranged a suicide pact and then lost his nerve to shoot himself.

Donald took the witness stand late yesterday and with utter frankness told the whole story of his love for Charlotte and the circumstances leading up to her death. He told a simple story of their falling in love and said proudly "we considered ourselves man and wife."

The youth had testified that Charlotte Matthiesen, two years his senior, believed death was "the most beautiful way out" of their difficulties and that after she told him the stories of several romantic plays and operas he "thought so too."

Asked why he thought death was the only way out when Charlotte discovered she was going to have a baby he replied:

"We thought if we told our parents we would be separated. We thought if we died we would be together."

Earlier in the day Mrs. Christina Matthiesen, mother of the slain girl testified in Donald's behalf that her daughter had suffered from a suicide complex.

ROBBER AT 11

Mansfield Boy Ordered Taken to Lancaster.

An 11-year-old Mansfield boy who confessed to more than a score of robberies in recent months, today had been sent to the Boys' Industrial school at Lancaster by Probate Judge C. J. Anderson.

Judge Anderson said the boy, one of five children in his family, had been in juvenile court four or five times on robbery charges.

The child was arrested by police on May 16 when he was caught ransacking the office of the Ohio theater. Police said he had considerable change, a billfold, wrist watch and a ring in his pockets when he was apprehended.

Judge Anderson said he learned that the youth had used his nine-year-old sister as an accomplice in most of the thefts, sending her ahead to ask for work and to look over the home or office he intended to rob. He then followed her, picking up the articles she had "spotted."

Non-Partisan League Plans 6-County Rally Here June 4

Seeking to align its forces for the march to the polls in the August primaries, Labor's Non-Partisan league will hold a six-county convention here June 4.

J. R. Harnly, president of the league in Richland county, said the one-day convention will open at 10 a. m. at the Delano lodge hall, North Bowman street.

Delegates from Knox, Licking, Delaware, Coshocton, Ashland and Richland counties, which make up the 17th congressional district, will attend the session.

Among the out-of-town speakers who will address the group will be John Owens, state chairman of Labor's Non-Partisan League of Ohio, and Elmer O. Fehlhaber, Cleveland, secretary and treasurer of the state organization.

Harnly said that following election of officers, the group will make their endorsements of the various candidates on both tickets in the 17th congressional district and the 27th-29th senatorial district for the primaries Aug. 2.

He said the group will make its endorsements of the candidates who are sympathetic to labor, regardless of party affiliations for offices to be filled at the election.

WED 33 DAYS, HUSBAND SUES

Divorce Petition Charges Wife 'Runs Around' at Nights.

Just 33 days after he was married in Kentucky, Owen ReMaley, R. D. 4, Mansfield, today had filed a suit for divorce from his bride, Evelyn ReMaley, charging gross neglect, cruelty and wilful absence.

In his petition, filed in common pleas court, ReMaley said his wife wants to "run around" at nights, fails to perform her household duties, becomes angry on the slightest provocation, and complains because he will not accompany her to beer parlors. They were married April 22 at Newport, Ky.

Mercury Gets Up Where It Ought to Be at Last.

Mansfield's two-day respite from rain is due to end tonight when occasional showers are forecast for the area.

Meanwhile, the mercury which has been gliding up and down the tube for the past three days, climbed back to summer levels today, registering 78 degrees at noon. The high yesterday was 70 and the low this morning, 46 degrees.

Partly overcast skies set the picture for the predicted showers today, and if they arrive, cooler weather will follow Friday, the forecast said.

71ST BIRTHDAY

Guns Boom Salute to Dowager Queen Mary of England.

LONDON —(AP)— Dignified Queen Mother Mary, unbending guardian of orthodoxy in Britain's royal family, is 71 years old today.

Batteries in Hyde Park boomed salutes, and public and private buildings hoisted flags, but Queen Mary's only celebration was a family luncheon party.

POPPIES ARRIVE

Memorial Flower to Be Sold on City Streets Saturday.

Thousands of scarlet poppies made by crippled World war veterans at the Soldiers and Sailors home at Sandusky have arrived in Mansfield and will be placed on sale on the downtown streets Saturday by the American Legion auxiliary.

Saturday is annual Poppy day and the memorial flower of the Legion, replica of the wild poppies that grew in the fields of France and Belgium during the World war, will be sold to replenish the welfare fund of the Legion auxiliary.

The fund is used throughout the year to buy milk, shoes, clothing and groceries for the families of disabled or deceased veterans.

Mrs. Hollis Moorhead, chairman of the Poppy day sales, announced the city's quota is 11,000. Boy Scouts, who have assisted the auxiliary every year, will sell the poppies.

SHOCKS HOUSE

Solon Charges Speaker Urged Roosevelt Assassination.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Representative Dies (D., Tex.) advised the house today he had information that a member of the German-American Bund, in a speech at one of the main "Nazi" camps in this country, had advocated assassination of President Roosevelt.

The Texan did not identify the member or amplify the charge.

He made it at the start of debate on his resolution to authorize an investigation by a seven-man house committee of the extent, character and objectives of un-American propaganda in the United States.

Dies said he was not an alarmist but that he had had "shocking" information supplied to him concerning the extent of a Nazi movement in this country.

$396 Auto, 40 Miles To Gallon Of Gas, Promised By Hitler

(By International News Service)

BERLIN—Europe still shivered under the impact of the Czechoslovakian crisis today, but Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler embarked upon a high pressure sales campaign to popularize a new German "poor man's automobile."

Possibly to preserve an atmosphere of official calm while the Nazi press fulminated and spoke darkly of "force replacing diplomacy," the fuehrer laid the cornerstone of a new automotive factory near Brunswick and extolled the glories of the open road.

He offered to the German public a car made to sell for $396 and guaranteed to run 60,000 miles without repairs. He promised also that it would do 40 miles to the gallon.

"This streamlined four-seater," he said, "is a mechanical marvel. It is aimed to supply the man in the street with a means of transportation compatible with his income.

"What has been possible for America and other countries must be possible for Germany. I hate the word 'impossible.' It is just an alibi for people who don't want to do a thing.

"The automobile in Germany must be the instrument of the classes instead of the luxury of a few hundred thousand especially favored by fortune," Hitler said.

GLOBE GIRDLING SCRIBE TELLS OF PUZZLING WORLD

New Frazier Hunt Book Among Non-Fiction Additions at Library.

"One American and His Attempt at Education," which is among the leading non-fiction additions at the Mansfield Public library this week-end, reports in vigorous style the numerous assignments which Frazier Hunt has had in various parts of the world.

Through all his travels and interviews with important leaders in many countries, this correspondent has tried to understand a bewildering world.

The Pulitzer prize play, "Our Town" by Thornton Wilder, depicts the life of a small New Hampshire village, with its humor and picturesqueness. The play is unusual, depending little on setting and much on explanatory remarks of one character who is called the stage manager. The lines are simple, but with overtones of real beauty, as was the author's "Bridge of San Luis Rey."

"Out of Africa" by Isak Dinesen, gives his impressions gained while operating a coffee plantation in Kenya.

Collectors of Currier and Ives prints will enjoy two volumes compiled by Fred J. Peters, which serves as pictorial lists of their "Clipper Ship Prints." "Including Other Merchants Sailing Vessels," and "Railroads, Indian and Pioneer Prints."

Life of Typical Family.

"Remember The Day" by Kenneth Horan is a series of humorous episodes in the life of a typical American family during the 1890's.

Non-fiction this week includes: "Advancing Front of Science" by Gray. "American Wings: Modern Aviation for Everyone" by Leyson. "Motion and Time Study" by Barnes. "Eugene O'Neill' by Winther. "Heroes of the Alcazar" by Timmermans. "Hotel in Spain" by Johnstone. "Mexico's Own Chronicle" by Fulton & Horgan. "The Goncourt Journals, 1851-1870" by Edmond & Jules de Goncourt, edited and translated by Galantiere. "Roosevelt—And Then" by High.

Dorothea Brande's new novel, "My Invincible Aunt" is a cleverly written contrast of two temperaments, one of whom was forever skeptical and the other always serenely confident. And the one who was confident had a beauty secret for all womankind, free for the taking. This interesting story of Star Williams and her Aunt Kit is an addition to the fiction shelves at the library.

A social problem that is present everywhere is understandably presented in "The Marsh" by Ernest Raymond. In the life of Danny Counsel, a boy of East London who, doomed by environment, sinks to a life of crime, there is the argument between the laborers whose lot it is to live on The Marsh and the masters of capital who live on The Hill.

"Out of The Roaring Loom" by Ethel Hull Miller portrays life in the Western Reserve of Ohio, in the early days when wagon trains came out from Connecticut.

Other fiction this week includes "Mayor on Horseback," by Oppenheim; "Persian Journey" by Groseclose; "Stubbs At Fifty," Pocock; "When Autumn's Here" by Shawell.

Three new books are being added to the John Baxter Black Memorial collection. A striking collection of photographs is "The River" prepared by Pare Lorentz from the motion picture which he produced for the Farm Security administration.

"The Culture of Cities" by Lewis Mumford tells the story of how cities have grown, from the medieval town to the modern metropolis.

A story of a man sky-rocketed by ambitions beyond his control, "What People Said" by William Lindsay White, sketches an imaginary town, Athena, Oklarada, in which politics and finance finally cause a scandal involving the leading citizens.

But It Won't Be That Easy!

Henry Armstrong of California, featherweight boxing champion, pastes a picture of Barney Ross, welterweight champ, on his punching bag and shows what he intends doing when they meet in New York in a fight for Ross' title tonight.

Ross-Armstrong Fight to Play to Small House Tonight

Customers Object to $16.50 for the Better Seats, Says Walsh.

By DAVIS J. WALSH

NEW YORK—(INS)—In a somewhat unconventional affair that becomes increasingly eccentric as it goes along, Barney Ross will defend his world's welterweight championship at 15 rounds against the world's featherweight champion, Henry Armstrong, at the Garden Bowl tonight before what apparently is to be a large and impressive deficit. The people, it seems, are being detained elsewhere in alarming numbers (at $16.50), with the result that the event is liable to seem a little exclusive—with those 70,000 seats filled with all that vacancy.

Not to be to abrupt about it, but if $125,000 is the "gross," it'll seem downright vulgar.

The weather, which has been bad for weeks and promises to be no better than threatening tonight, has been against the promotion. So have several other things, including the almost irreconciliable fact that, by winning tonight, Armstrong will hold the championship of two widely estranged classes, but not the one in between.

A believe-it-or-not of that nature doesn't make things look very good for the colored boy and neither does the fact that, by special agreement, he must weigh 136 pounds today and, therefore, has been swilling beer in his training camp in order to keep his weight up where it doesn't properly belong. Moreover, he will "dry out" after the weighing-in, not before it. Outside of that, everything is superb.

They're betting 7-5, therefore, that Ross—graying temples and all—will take the decision and keep the championship, and offering 1-3 that he doesn't win by a knockout. Meantime, Armstrong, though he has 1-4 as a knockout possibility tonight.

His best chance is that he'll lose some of his excess weight after the weigh-in and that he'll shed more as the fight progresses, therefore being more nearly natural in the late rounds, if any. His worst chance is that the history of pugilism—Leonard versus Kilbane and Kilbane versus Williams—is all against the small champion versus the big.

One more good chance we must concede the colored boy is the possibility that the Ross we'll see tonight may turn out to be no more than a stuffed and padded effigy of the Ross we knew against McLarnin and Canzoneri and who, in all the years he's been fighting, has lost only thrice. However, I'll say this:

I'll have to see him lose first, before I'll quit on Ross. He has flecks of grey in his hair now and his eyes are a little puckered, but the record says that he doesn't lose, so he's more than entitled to one more ride with the boys. It can even be "on" them, and they'll still be away ahead.

Ross, by the books, is 28½ years old to about 25½ for Armstrong, but the difference is service is considerable, if not tremendous. After some 150 amateur fights, Barney started fighting professionally away back there in 1929, which is something to ponder about by chance, as it were, in your spare time.

In 1929, Tunney was still the great fighter, a retired champion who could return without the slightest apology. We still were thinking of Dempsey in terms of a comeback; Loughran hadn't yet given up his light heavyweight title and Braddock was his unsuccessful challenger. Canzoneri had hardly been heard of and, as for Schmeling, he was just a bewildered German, making his first passes at American prestige. Sharkey hadn't yet won the heavyweight championship but had already lost the first fine flourish of his ability. Most of them are "fronting" seductively before winebuyers now.

Yes, remember these things if you will—and they're well worth a vagrant thought—but, for me, Ross can't yet be forgotten as the fighter who doesn't fail. For me, he has to and, in fact, must lose just once, before I'll admit that he can.

Kids Hold Spotlight In Legion's Lineup

Youngsters May Make Fans Forget Red Sox Stars Before Season Is Concluded.

By OSCAR RUHL, News-Journal Sports Editor.

IT MAY be difficult to make Mansfielders forget some of the spectacular youngsters who wore the livery of last year's Red Sox, but the American Legion semi-pro club presents a group of kids in its lineup which has performed brilliantly enough in limited appearance to attract attention.

The Legionnaires, who meet Marion in a Central Ohio league game at the Fairground Sunday afternoon, sport a lineup stocked with promising home town talent, which, eventually, may be carried into organized baseball.

Manager Dewey Durant has sprinkled the lineup with veterans to steady the youngsters, but the kids have stolen most of the thunder in the games played to date.

The youngsters who have performed in a promising fashion are Howard Patterson, Dick Donnan, Junior Keester, Freddy Lewis, Lloyd Beal and Dale Leedy, and Durant will have a couple of other young boys to show the fans when Ed Willard and Nick Weber finish their college terms.

* * *

Frank Stinson was not given much of a chance to show his stuff with the Mansfield Red Sox last year, but he is making up for his lack of activity during the past season right now. Stinson, who has been converted into a catcher, has been clubbing the ball at a lively clip for Danville, Va., and last week socked a home run with the bases loaded to win a game for his team, 7-4.

Corrects Faults For Next Game.

EARL HERRICK'S Hi-Speeds are working hard this week to correct some of the mistakes which cost a pair of defeats in Sandusky last Sunday as they prepare for their tilt with the Columbus Cardinals at League park next Sunday.

Bad infield play was responsible for the pair of setbacks, we understand.

Other Mansfield teams are also putting in plenty of work on the practice fields this week as they prepare for the heavy week-end of action.

Records Due To Fall In Ohio Finals

Classy Field to Perform This Week-End.

By FRITZ HOWELL.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—H. R. Townsend, state high school athletic commissioner, predicted today that Ohio's scholastic track and field athletes would go on a record-breaking spree Friday and Saturday, should favorable weather be on tap for the annual championship meet.

In the district qualifiers eight marks were registetred which topped winning performances in last year's contests, while two state records were bettered and another tied.

"Jabbo" Giles of Newark bettered the shot put record of 50 feet 11¼ inches set in 1930 by Davis of East Tech, having the lead ball 53 feet one inch in the Central District event.

Along with the track and field stars, the tennis, golf and baseball players will decide state titles Friday and Saturday.

Schools winning their way into the golf competition included Mansfield, Lima Central and Jackson.

Rain disrupted the baseball and tennis schedules in the districts, but all the qualifiers were expected to be named before Friday morning.

Stoves, Nick's Club Score Second Wins

Dominion Electrics, All-State Freights Take Other Commercial League Games.

NICK'S PLACE and the Tappan Stoves registered their second straight victories in the Y. M. C. A Commercial softball league yesterday to remain in first place in the championship race.

The Stoves walloped the Hartman Electrics, 10 to 2, at Prospect park and Nick's Place drubbed Page's Dairy, 14 to 1, at North park

Dominion Electric, defending champion, pushed across runs in every inning but the second to smother Miller's Dairy, 20 to 2, at Johns park. It was the Electrics' opening game of the season.

In the other affair yesterday the All-State Freights marked up their first triumph by turning back the Sweet Oils, 9 to 4, at Liberty park.

Gross, Nick's Place moundsman, set the Page Dairy club down with seven hits and kept it away from the plate in all but the sixth inning when it tallied its single marker. Wentz led the winners' 21-hit attack with four for four, which included a triple and double. Rayburn hit a home run for Nick's Place.

The Stoves scored four runs in the opening inning to take a lead they never relinquished. Smith collected four for four to pace the Stoves' attack Patterson clouted a circuit blow for the winners. Kistling solved Kleer's slants for three hits to lead the Hartman attack.

The Freights tallied three runs in the first and added five more in the fourth inning to top the Sweet Oils. The Oilmen found McKinley for 11 hits, but were unable to bunch them except in the fifth inning when they scored twice Masni secured four hits to lead the Freights' attack. Ray Friday, Hall and Jack Miner contributed home runs to the winners' cause.

Dominion displayed some of the power which led them through a successful season last year as it collected 18 hits off B. Moritz and Berry, Miller's Dairy pitchers. Gloer socked out a pair of homers for the Electrics. Hinshaw and LeMunyon collected three hits apiece for the winners.

Cleveland Boosts Lead to Three Full Games

Wins Eighth Victory in 10 Starts as It Stops Boston, 6 to 4.

CLEVELAND— (CP)—Ability to beat rival pennant contenders is a prerequisite of a championship team and temporarily at least the Cleveland Indians today were able to fulfill that requirement

The Indians boosted their lead in the American league race to three games here yesterday when they defeated the second place Boston Red Sox, 6 to 4.

The victory was the eighth in ten starts for the Tribe during the current home stay and its third straight over clubs that had challenged it for the lead. The New York Yankees previously had been turned back twice in a row.

Mel Harder, veteran right-hander who was making his first start in two weeks, was in the box for Cleveland and pitched one of the finest games he has turned in in three seasons

Harder held the hard-hitting Red Sox to seven hits Only one run made off his delivery was genuinely earned The others came on Indian misplays.

The Red Sox scored twice in the second, once in the third and once in the eighth.

Fritz Ostermueller, the Red Sox starting pitcher, held Cleveland well in check for six innings and at the end of that time had a narrow 3 to 2 lead However, in the seventh the Tribe hopped on him for four runs to clinch the decision. Archie McKain finished the game without serious trouble

Lyn Lary led the Indians' 13-hit attack with three safeties Averill, Trosky. Keltner and Hemsley secured two hits each.

The concluding game of the Boston series was to be played today with Denny Galehouse getting another chance as a starting pitcher.

Circuit Hits Beat Yankees In Detroit

York, Greenberg Each Swat Pair in 7-3 Victory.

By GEORGE KIRKSEY

NEW YORK —(CP)— Play is settling down to normal in the major leagues, with the American offering the home run as its piece de resistance and the National drifting back to tight defensive games after a brief splurge of slugging

Rudy York and Hank Greenberg, Detroit's twin howitzers, headlined the American league's home run circus yesterday by clouting a pair of circuit wallops each to beat the New York Yankees, 7-3. York hit homers No. seven and eight and drove in five runs while Greenberg hit Nos. nine and ten to take the league lead

The other important homer in the American league's collection of nine was by Mike Kreevich, Chicago White Sox. He hit his with two on in the seventh, featuring a four-run rally which defeated the Athletics, 7-4.

Pitching ruled the day in the National league, with a three-hit performance, two five-hit exhibitions, a six-hit game and a seven hit affair. Larry French held Brooklyn to three hits as the Chicago Cubs trimmed the Dodgers, 7-2.

Danny MacFayden outdueled Paul Derringer to give the Boston Bees a 2-1 triumph over Cincinnati in 11 innings.

Bucky Walters held the Pirates to five hits as the Phillies beat Pittsburgh, 2-1 Jim Tobin also pitched a five-hit game, losing on Heinie Mueller's second-inning homer.

Hal Schumacher limited the Cardinals to six hits, one of them a homer by Don Gutteridge, as the league-leading New York Giants beat St. Louis, 3-1, and held their 2½ game lead.

In the other two American league games Cleveland increased its lead to three games by knocking off the Boston Red Sox, 6-4, and the St Louis Browns nosed out Washington, 4-3 in 13 innings.

STOCKS BATTLE DOWNTREND IN SLOW TRADING

Select Issues Manage to Convert Small Declined Into Moderate Gains.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Stocks struggled with mild success to reverse the downtrend in today's market.

Selected rails, motors, steels, aircrafts and specialties managed to convert small initial declines into moderate gains near the second hour. The trading pace was slow.

Tension over the German-Czech crisis seemed to have relaxed a bit but some financial quarters were apprehensive over European war possibilities. Business news lacked cheering qualities.

Bonds displayed a backward drift. Commodities were mixed. Securities quotations abroad were irregular.

Market analysts noted that while April was the eigth month of the acute recession, governmental data indicated a number of durable goods industries and about half the consumers' goods trades still were putting up stiff resistance.

Holding better than most, it was found, were the aircraft, silverware, jewelry, calculating machine and farm lines. In the consumers' department impressive showings were made by foods, tobacco, petroleum and women's clothing industries.

Further stressing the general drying up of spending was another drop in the total bank clearings in 22 principal cities for the week ended yesterday.

ICKES, BRIDE OFF TO LONDON

Land in Wales, Sleep Undisturbed by Boat's Livestock Cargo.

FISHGUARD, Wales — (AP) — Harold L. Ickes, United States secretary of the interior, and his red-headed bride landed in the cold Welsh dawn at this little port and sped for London on the third day of their honeymoon.

They arrived from Ireland in the motor vessel, Innisfallen and remained aboard through the night.

Secretary Ickes said the Innisfallen's bellowing, squealing cargo of Irish cattle and pigs did not disturb his sleep in the slightest.

The 25-year-old Mrs. Ickes smiled an impish "me, too."

SEEK HIGHER MILK PRICES

Independents Protest Against 'Unreasonable' Sanitation Requirements.

would prefer keeping their milk a home rather than "fix up" their barns according to health board requirements and accept the present price schedule.

Warning them of further price cuts unless business conditions improve, Mowry told the group that "even if all the non-association members should strike, there would still be enough milk available to supply Mansfield's needs."

"You can't whip the health board which has almost unlimited power to enforce the sanitation code," Mowry said. "The best thing for us to do," he added, "is to work together and try to conform to the board's requirements if we want higher prices."

Producers complained that their milk grade and prices had been cut by inspectors because they failed to comply with the sanitation requirements. Producers who meet all requirements receive a grade "B" for their milk, while others are listed in the grade "D" classification.

"We can't afford to fix up our barns for the prices we get," Pittenger asserted. "It's up to us to stop this movement now; we've been the goats long enough."

He charged that the distributors are using the board as a screen with which to get milk for lower prices through reduction in milk grades for failure to comply with the board's requirements.

Brand Requirements 'Silly.'

The major objection to the health rode was directed at the regulations calling for the use of special milk pails, a change of clothing before milking, sterilizing the nands after milking each cow, and washing the cows before milking them.

Such requirements were branded as "silly and too expensive for the little producer."

"I'm for sanitation and I don't see any harm in these sanitary rules, but I think we ought to be paid for complying with them," Henry Bachus, Monroe township, one of the independent spokesmen, said.

The code for producers was tightened in the county April 1 when the health board voted strict observance of the ruling which had been in effect for three years.

A poll of the group last night showed that 35 of the producers had complied with sanitation requirements and are receiving top prices for grade "B" milk, while 33 were receiving lower prices for a lower grade milk. The others present did not answer.

Dr. Roy C. Rehder, city-county health commissioner, said today a delegation of independent producers had visited him several days ago and requested that he "do something about the sanitation regulations."

He told them, he said, that there was no alternative than to comply with the ruling if they are to get the top grade price.

THEATER

MOST period pictures cheat on the unbecoming fashions, but Bette Davis, one of the glamor girls with plenty of nerve will go the limit in "The Sisters," which is laid in the 1902 period, when The Gibson Girl was the last word in What It Takes. You probably won't remember it, but the gals wore their corsets laced in like everything, cute little bustles, occasional hip pads, rats in their hair, peek-a-boo shirt waists, long sweeping skirts and funny sailor hats.

Emotional Drama.

"Sinners In Paradise," booked for the Madison Friday and Saturday, is an emotional drama based on the theme of seven persons who are cut off from the world. They are aboard a giant airliner bound from San Francisco to Shanghai, which bursts into flames and plunges into the sea near an uncharted island. Aboard the plane are a racketeer, a girl fleeing from a gambling investigation, a discontented wife, a pompous senator, the world's richest girl, and two munitions agents. On the island is a fugitive surgeon and his Chinese servant. Among the players are John Boles, Madge Evans, Marion Martin, Bruce Cabot and Gene Lockhart. All of them undergo a character change while lost to the world.

Pictorial Beauty.

Whether or not movie goers to the Ohio this week liked Errol Flynn in the role of Robin Hood, they were agreed that it is an unusually beautiful picture. Magnificiently staged, it has been done in colors which make the scenes in Sherwood Forest like a series of lovely paintings. But it also has action—action of the kind that once made Doug Fairbank's pictures tops in box office appeal. One of the highlights that thrill is the scene in Nottingham castle when Robin hurls defiance at Prince John and all of the traitorous knights. The picture ends a week run at the Ohio Friday night.

State Police Step In.

There's action in "State Police," opening tomorrow at the Majestic with fist fights and gunplay. The action takes place largely in a mining community where the unemployed miners are being made to pay a heavy tax by racketeers. State police step in to clean up the situation, but it takes several murders, a kidnaping and some red-blooded fighting to accomplish it. John King and Constance Moore contribute action and romance to the picture. The Columbia Western "Rolling Caravans" brings a familiar face back to pictures after several years absence. Jack Luden, in private life the son of the millionaire cough drop magnet, and who has been playing around in pictures for several years, comes back to cowboy roles in this picture.

Arson Gang Busted.

Jack LaRue, who began his motion picture career by playing a priest in "Farewell To Arms," continues it by playing roles of deep villainy. In his latest picture "Arson Gang Busters," he is meaner than ever. The hero role is played by Bob Livingston who always plays Stony in the Three Mesquiteers pictures. The action of "Arson Gang Busters" is suggested by the title and Livingston is assigned to break up an arson gang in New York City Rosalind Keith is the girl. Warren Hymer and Jackie Moran are in the cast. The picture is one of the Ritz features for the last two days of the week. The other one is Bob Baker in "Border Wolves."

Health Department Sets Dates for Examination of Pre-School Children.

The annual pre-school clinics, conducted by the public health department for children who will enter the Mansfield schools for the first time next fall, opens June 1 at the health department in the city building, Dr. Roy C. Rehder, city-county health commissioner, announced today.

The clinics will start next Wednesday morning with pre-school children from the West Fifth street and Carpenter school districts examined first and children from the Prospect and Woodland school districts in the afternoon.

The clinics are held to detect defects in child health, Dr. Rehder said. Recommendations for the correction of the defects are made to the parents.

In Morning, Afternoon.

The clinics are held in the mornings from 8:30 a. m. to 10 a. m., and in the afternoons from 1 p. m. to 3 p. m., under the direction of Dr. Paul Baird, assistant health commissioner and two health department nurses.

It's Odd

But It's Science.

BOSTON—(AP)—Medical myths: the athletic heart; use digitalis for pneumonia; dampness causes malaria.

These were cited by Roger I. Lee, M. D., in a report to the American College of Physicians, to show how even the best medical observations can lead to wrong opinions.

"The myth of the athletic heart," he said, "is an excellent example of faulty observation.

"A few cases of cardiac disease or death were cited to furnish the statistical evidence. Then extraordinary conclusions of all sorts were made.

"Instruments of precision showed the original observations to be erroneous. But the belief was kept alive by a credence in the statistical evidence although this evidence satisfied no statistical requirement.

"Certainly a little thought indicates many other factors that might affect the heart in addition to college athletics."

The belief in digitalis for pneumonia came from the use of the electro-cardiograph, the instrument that electrically records heart beats. Digitalis for pneumonia patients, said Dr. Lee, became almost routine overnight. Yet later it was shown that digitalis actually was detrimental in the average case of pneumonia.

Malaria was blamed on dampness because it existed near swampy places. But it really came from mosquitoes.

LOWLY MATCH STUB FAVORITE BOOKMARKER, LIBRARY FINDS

What do you use for a marker when you're forced to leave an interesting book in a hurry? A pocket comb? A mirror? Or a personal letter?

The "catch-all" drawer at the Mansfield Public library has had some strange bookmarks. No one ever calls for the articles, no matter how valuable or personal they may be, which would indicate that bookmarks are thrust in hastily and forgotten when the book is finished.

The one article most frequently found by the librarian is a burnt match stub placed between the pages, and next in use as markers are letters. These are always destroyed without being opened, but there was an exception, Miss Lois MacKellar, librarian, says.

Several years ago a book was returned by a person who had been prominently involved in a murder for revenge, and in the book was a part of a letter from a man who had just been electrocuted at Ohio penitentiary for that murder. The few sentences in his hand writing, strangely enough, gave the key to his destiny. In scrawled penciled lines was the statement—"I'll get even with her if it's the last act of my life." He did "get even" and it was almost the last act of his life.

Men frequently use small pocket combs for bookmarks, while children's books are often marked with a clean little handkerchief, neatly folded and pressed.

It seems that gas and electric bills are handy when a marker is needed and not infrequently there appeared a street car pass in the days when they were printed on cards.

There are always pictures bobbing up, kodak snapshots and small photos, and sometimes negatives appear between the pages. Those little pocket book mirrors would seem to be fragile bookmarks—but they're used. Pocket rulers, too, find their way into the catch-all drawer, and eventually into the waste paper basket.

Articles are kept for several weeks and then, when they remain uncalled for, are destroyed.

WELL, MIGHT AS WELL RETURN IT TO HIM—I'VE READ EVERY WORD IN IT—
5-26-38
IT'S TH' COMPLETE RECORD O' SLITHER'S TRIAL FOR MURDERIN' CAPT'N ALDEN—DID YOU FIND OUT ANYTHING SPECIAL?
NO—SLITHER CAME HERE FROM SPRINGFIELD—BUT THAT DOESN'T MEAN A THING—
NOPE—GUDGE CAME FROM THERE, TOO, BUT NOT TILL A YEAR LATER—AND THERE'S THOUSANDS O' FOLKS IN SPRINGFIELD—SLITHER WAS MOST LIKELY JUST A TOUGH BUM ON HIS OWN, AS EVERYBODY THOUGHT—

YES, I SUPPOSE A GUY IS STICKING AN AD IN THE PAPER TO FIND ME AND GIVE ME SOMETHING—TO GIVE ME A "TOUCH"
IN THE FIRST PLACE, I WOULDN'T HAVE ANSWERED THE AD—NOW THAT YOU DID, WAIT UNTIL THE WORRY CATCHES UP TO YOU—DON'T GO TO MEET IT

STAR WITNESS

Dog Takes 'Stand' for Master, Case Dismissed.

SACRAMENTO, Cal.—(INS)—"Puppy," a shaggy, black and white dog of undetermined ancestry, took the witness stand at Stockton and saved Mrs. Ella Gregson from a fine.

For "Puppy" sat upon the lap of Mrs. Gregson's son, to testify with wagging tail and affectionate tongue that her son, and not Mrs. Gregson was the master.

"Case dismissed," Judge Edward B. Breitenbucher said, "That dog doesn't belong to Mrs. Gregson, so how could she be forced to buy him a license?"

Library Picks Travel Stories As Theme For Children's Class.

The annual summer reading course which the Public library offers to children, opens this week with travel stories as the theme for the course.

A large, brightly colored map has been set up in the children's reading room, and at the end of the summer the names of those who have read the prescribed 10 books will appear at either side the map, the girls on one side and the boys on the other.

Every boy and girl who has read 10 travel books by Oct. 1 will be given a certificate at the first story hour and those who have completed the third-year course will be presented with a book of their own choosing. Miss Margaret Draper, children's librarian, is in charge of the course.

SEEKS CURB ON PWA LOANS FOR POWER PLANTS

Senate Amendment Would Ban Funds for Units Competing With Private Utilities.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—Two new compromise amendments today intensified the senate struggle over a provision of the $3,247,025,000 recovery bill restricting Public Works administration loans for power projects.

The restriction, added to the bill by the senate appropriations committee, would prohibit such loans to power projects which would compete with privately owned or operated utility plants.

Sen. Francis T. Maloney (D., Conn.) introduced an amendment designed to permit PWA to continue its present policy of grants and loans for power plants under certain conditions.

Seeks Rate Cut.

Sen. Carl A. Hatch (D., N. M.) is drafting an amendment to permit continuance of the present policy unless private utilities agree to reduce rates to those that the municipality could establish on basis of estimated investment.

Maloney's amendment, somewhat similar to one proposed but later abandoned by Senate Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley (D., Ky.), would permit allocation of PWA funds for municipal plants if an existing private utility rejects a bona fide offer for its facilities, subject to procedure providing for arbitrators appointed by both sides and the governor of the state.

The new amendments were drafted as it appeared the senate would be unable to vote on the spending-lending bill before Monday.

Barkley was attempting to shunt the recovery bill aside temporarily in a move to send the wage-hour bill to conference. In addition, Sen. Royal S. Copeland (D., N. Y.) said an "educational campaign" by the measure's opponents would delay action until next week.

TWO NAMED TO 'Y' CAMP BOARD

Mansfielders On Area Committee In Charge of Camp Dodd.

John Eisman and Earl Clark, members of the Y. M. C. A. camp committee, were named to the "Y" Area camp committee at a meeting of the group last night at the "Y."

The area committee has general supervision over all activities at the Y. M. C. A. camp at Camp Nelson Dodd, near Brinkhaven.

Eisman was also named chairman of the local committee, succeeding J. S. McFarland, who has been in ill health. The committee reported that six registrations had been received for the summer camp which opens July 10 and continues for two weeks. All registrations must be made at the "Y" before June 10, the closing registration day.

MORE TESTIFY

Grand Jury Probing Political Fees 'Learning Lots.'

COLUMBUS —(AP)— A special grand jury investigating illegal political assessments, which already has questioned 292 witnesses, called additional state employes for testimony today.

Assistant Attorneys General Will P. Stephenson and Frederick V. Cuff asserted that "lots of interesting information" had been uncovered but declined to amplify their remarks.

RENEW POLICIES

City Heads Continue $150,000 in Fire Insurance.

City officials today had taken steps to cover all municipal property against any possible fire loss for another year with the renewal of $150,000 in fire insurance protection.

Service-Safety Director Tracy C. Styert said he had contracted with four different firms for the policies which will replace the ones that expire June 1. The term is for one year at a total premium of $439.

Largest of the policies, $70,000, was written by Tracy and Massa, local agents for the Great American Insurance company, at an annual premium of $217. The Lumbermens Mutual Insurance company wrote $40,000 at $62, while the Lincoln Mutual Indemnity company and the Mansfield Mutual Fire Insurance company, both issued $20,000 policies for a total annual premium of $98.

LAUDS VETERAN ORGANIZATIONS

Head of Disabled Vets In Ohio Says More Groups Needed.

Work of the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars and other organization was praised last night by George R. Fout, Cleveland, in a talk before Mansfield disabled veterans at a meeting at the Memorial building.

"With 363,000 disabled ex-soldiers eligible for government aid, there are too few veterans' organizations fighting for their interests," Fout said. "We need more organizations."

Fout is state commander of the Disabled American Veterans. With him here last night was George F. Farling, Cleveland, national rehabilitation officer for the same organization, who told of the possibilities in legislation providing for rehabilitation of indigent veterans.

FLIGHT FUTILE

Woman Escapes From Marysville, Caught 15 Hours Later.

MARYSVILLE — (UP) — Elizabeth, 42, of Cleveland, who escaped from the women's reformatory here, was captured in a woods five miles southwest today, 15 hours after she walked away from the prison.

George and Richard Starr, farmers, saw her walk from a barn and caught her. She was serving a term for forgery.

They Met Death in Plane Crash

Crash of United Airlines passenger plane a few minutes before its scheduled landing at the Cleveland airport, brought sudden death to all seven passengers and crew of three, two of whom are shown above. Those pictured are James L. (Monty) Brandon, 43, veteran pilot who was at the controls when the plane crashed into a ravine and burst into flames, and Miss Mildred A. Macek, 24-year-old stewardess, the only woman on the plane. The accident occurred only seven miles from the airport.

SAME OFFICERS

P. T. A. Council Re-elects All But One at Meeting.

Officers of the Mansfield Council of Parents and Teachers with one exception were re-elected at the annual election of the group held last night in the Chamber of Commerce rooms in the Farmers Bank building.

Re-elected were Mrs. David Boals, president, one-year term; G. W. Harmony, vice president, two-year term; W. A. Freeman, corresponding secretary, one-year term, and L. R. McGinty, treasurer, one-year term. The new officer is Mrs. M. J. Scanlon, recording secretary, for a two-year term.

Speakers at the meeting were Dr. Roy C. Rehder, city-county health commissioner, Mrs. I. W. Basinger, W. L. Miller, superintendent of schools, and Harold W. Arlin. Dr. Rehder spoke to the council on summer health precautions, Mrs. Basinger reported on the National P. T. A. concention held recently at Salt Lake City, Utah, at which she was a delegate, and Arlin and Miller explained the proposed school building program.

CONVICTED OF KILLING 4 BOYS

Mountain Moonshiners Get 99 Years Each For Murders.

ASHLAND CITY, Tenn.—(U.P.)—Lee Nesbitt and Albert Davenport, mountaineer moonshiners of the Marrowbone creek district, today waited for authorities to take them to Nashville to serve 99-year sentences for murdering four farm boys.

A jury deliberated an hour and five minutes last night pronounced the men guilty and recommended sentences of 99 years.

Although the state charged Nesbitt and Davenport with killing four youths, they were tried only for the murder of one.

BLASTS MORGAN IN TVA HEARING

Direct Charges Ex-Chairman Campaigned to Discredit U. S. Power Program.

efforts to carry out the directions of congress as stated in the TVA act."

Morgan, an educator-scientist, was in an amiable mood when he took the stand.

He read slowly from a 44-page prepared statement.

Most of the witness' bulky statement was devoted to a detailed recital of TVA activities since the first board meeting on June 16, 1933.

Throughout the testimony ran the contention of the present chairman that A. E. Morgan had failed to co-operate with the other directors in carrying out TVA policies dictated by congress.

Even after the board had acted on some matters, the witness said, the former chairman would seek to "obsruct action and give effect to his dissenting views."

Recalling Arthur Morgan's earlier charges of "lack of integrity" on the part of the toher two TVA directors, H. A. Morgan asserted that the charges had been "generally understood, practcally without exception, to be charges of personal financial dishonesty and corruption in the administration of a great public trust."

Hits Morgan's 'Denial.'

"Yesterday, I am told, Arthur Morgan appeared before this committee and denied that he intended to make such charges against us," he continued. "But this is the first time that he has even hinted at such a denial.

"In all these recent months, he has remained silent while the press, the congress, and the general public have been shocked by the scandal which they were led to believe existed. . . .

"The reasons which prompted him to remain silent while this unjust and wholly unfounded accusation was outstanding against us, I shall never understand.

"Instead of charges of corruption and dishonesty, I am told that he has now attempted to specify charges of an entirely different nature."

Lilienthal listened attentively yesterday when Morgan, recently ousted as chairman by presidential order, denounced him as the man who had used "control" of Harcourt Morgan's vote to make "false and misleading" reports about the work of TVA, to "obstruct" the agency's progress, and to form a "conspiracy" against the chairman.

The deposed official, speaking in a rather high-pitched voice, read detailed accusations against his former colleagues for five hours. He explained he made no charges of corruption or bribery, but added:

"The deterioration of public administration does not come chiefly by such crude processes as passing bribes or by dividing dishonest profits.

"There is a far greater loss due to failure to stand firm against special privileges and improprieties on the part of men in position and influence and power in politics or business."

Near the close of his testimony, which he emphasized with short, jerky gestures, Dr. Morgan discussed the claims of Senator Berry (D., Tenn.) against TVA for damage to marble leases on lands which the government took over.

"The responsibilities and obligations of public servants were thrown aside to help out Major Berry," he said. "I have not charged personal dishonesty, that is to say: That the other members of the board were to profit if Major Berry were paid for his claims, save only by keeping his friendship and political influence and by keeping on good terms with the political groups with which at that time he held a powerful position."

The record, Dr. Morgan added, showed "a lack of that strict probity, high purpose and great responsibility which should motivate a director of TVA.

Questions Honesty.

"I maintain that the record does not show frank, disinterested and honest public service. I hold that great skill in providing alibis and in shifting responsibility to underlings, assistants or others, such as this case shows, is a highly developed technique on the part of Mr. Lilienthal, and permeates his activities."

Dr. Morgan contended that the two other directors "in attempting to bring about a quiet settlement with Major Berry and his associates, and especially the lack of vigorous preparation by the attorney in charge" stood as a "deliberate effort on the part of the majority of the board to make things easy for Major Berry."

A commission ruled that the property was worthless for development of the marble deposits.

Dr. Morgan, seated at a mahogany table in a marble-pillared committee room, divided his statement into 11 documents of several thousand words each. On one side was his son, Griscom, and on the other Walter Kahoe, who has been his assistant since he became president of Antioch college (Ohio).

Dr. Morgan told the ten committeemen his former colleagues had been responsible for "unequivocal falsification" in reporting policies of the Tennessee Valley Authority to President Roosevelt, to congress and to the public.

Lilienthal and Harcourt Morgan, he said, had falsely made the public believe the Commonwealth and Southern corporation was unwilling to sell its holdings to TVA, whereas in reality it was prepared to do so.

"Hidden subsidies," he declared, helped to make TVA "yardstick" power rates lower than they otherwise would have been.

BURKHOLDER RITES FRIDAY

Funeral services for Mrs. Bessie Burkholder, 53, of Pavonia, who died at her home Tuesday after a four-weeks illness, will be held at the Wappner funeral home at 1 p. m. Friday in charge of Rev. Oscar L. Ashburn, pastor of the Pavonia M. E. church. Burial will be in Byrd cemetery in Knox county.

PAID DOUBLE

Witness Says 'Hot Mix' Cost City $8.43, State $16.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—An engineer for three Columbus suburbs testified in common pleas court today they purchased "hot mix" road material for half as much as the state paid.

C. A. Nipple also said the material for which the suburbs paid $8.43 a cubic yard was better than a similar type for which witnesses asserted the state highway department gave as much as $16 a cubic yard.

Before Nipple took the stand, an assertion that awards by the state of some "hot mix" contracts on a single bid looked "a little suspicious" was spread on the record.

CHAPTER XV

Clayton Odell was apparently so contented when he came into the dining-room that morning that Romulus Wardlaw peered at him suspiciously from behind a large bowl of oatmeal.

"Good morning," he said shortly, in answer to the younger man's cheery greeting. If Clayton had gone on his projected errand the evening before, he must have met with success. Romulus would have much preferred not to ask any questions, but Clayton maintained a provoking air of meditation.

At length, Romulus wiped his mouth with an impatient gesture.

"Well?" he offered "Did you talk to that girl last night?"

"Oh, yes."

"She's coming to work, of course?"

"No," was the cheerful response. "She isn't."

"Umph. What did she have to say?"

"Asked what we thought she was. I couldn't tell her the answer because I was wondering the same thing."

"There's gratitude for you!" Romulus grumbled, letting his nephew's flippant remark pass unheeded. "It's about what you can look for from this generation Well, who do you think can take her place?"

"I don't think anyone can. . . . Oh, you mean looking after the files? I suppose we may as well use Miss Case. I understand she's quite familiar with the work."

"I don't mean the filing system I'm talking about the cost idea you have in mind."

"Oh, that. Why, I think we'll let that go by. It might take several months to get it functioning smoothly. I have several little short cuts in the present system that I believe Knott could use to advantage, if he cares to. I was thinking of suggesting them to him, providing of course that it meets with your approval."

* * *

Romulus' only reply was a grunt. It was evident from the way this young upstart was talking that he still held to the idea of leaving the mill. Wardlaw, however, did not want to hear it confirmed and went on sipping his coffee with so grim a face that Clayton asked, with an air of sudden apology·

"Pardon me for not asking before, Uncle, but how are you feeling this morning?"

"Well enough, I dare say. I can't afford to feel any other way. I never have been able to and I guess I never will. Are you ready to start for the office?"

"I'll follow you very shortly, Uncle. Don't wait for me. I've a letter I want to write."

The letter Clay had in mind was to John Oglebay, managing vice president of the wholesale hardware concern where the young man had been employed before coming to Norwood He believed it would be well to state rather frankly what had developed and that he was convinced it was to his best interests to leave his uncle's mill The letter would be more nearly a bid for Oglebay's advice than a suggestion that he would like a job. Oglebay had always displayed an interest in him; he would understand. If he agreed that Clay was doing the right thing, the latter would feel easier in his mind.

The coming weeks that he would be obliged to spend in the Norwood Mills office had no allurement to offer, from a business standpoint. If Romulus had been as other men, Clay would have asked leave to quit immediately and forego his pay. But he knew that his uncle would hold him to the letter of their contract in the hope that he would decide to remain. It wouldn't be ethical to neglect his work during the interim, but there was no incentive to carry on

* * *

Privately, Clay was glad that Larry would not be in her accustomed place Her absence would make the office even more intolerable, but, now that she knew his attitude toward her, it would have made things pretty difficult. There was the one bright spot in life. Larry no longer was an employe of the firm Clayton Odell could make love to her all he liked without unpleasant commercial inferences.

Clay wondered who the man was who had proposed to her Obviously a home-towner and, more than likely, some chap from the mill. But it made no difference . . . he couldn't have Larry, no matter who he was What a perfectly different and adorable youngster she was Irresponsible and full of fun, a companion and friend who'd never fail a fellow, once she put her trust in him

Clay suddenly discovered that he was staring at a blank sheet of paper and, according to his watch, he had been dreaming for more than half an hour. The letter had better wait, now.

Arrived at the office, Romulus sent for him and inquired if he had made the adjustments necessitated by Miss Layne's leaving He spoke as if Clay were responsible for the situation and admitted that he had no suggestions of his own. Just so the outer office functioned as usual. At his desk, Clay drew up a rough schedule with what he considered appropriate changes and, with a sigh of resignation summoned Olive Case

She came at once, demure of face, her alert black eyes fixed inquiringly on Clay's "You wanted to see me, Mr. Odell?"

"Why, yes Miss Case I wanted to tell you that Miss Layne is . . . that she has severed her connections with the company."

"Oh, yes. I know all about it. I was talking to her at home this morning before I came in. And she didn't sever her connections . . she was severed. It's a shame"

Clay looked at her in some amazement.

"At all events," he resumed, "we will have to make arrangements about the files I understand that you are probably more familiar with the system than anyone else. I wish you would take them over at once I will arrange with Mr Knott about the work you have been doing. Is that satisfactory?"

"Oh, I guess so I'm not so crazy about it. Larry told me she was let out because she lost something or other." Olive smiled amiably. This was the first real opportunity that had been granted her for a private conversation with Mr. Odell and she proposed to make the most of it. She sighed "If Larry couldn't do that filing job right with all her experience, I don't think there's much of a chance for little me. I hope you won't expect too much, just at first"

"I'm sure you can manage it very nicely, Miss Case" Clay said it pleasantly, but dismissively. He picked up the schedule from his desk and glanced over it But Olive had no intention of relinquishing her moment until she must

"We sure are going to miss the child," she mused Larry's so full of fun always But we wouldn't have been greatly surprised to lose her most any time I've been expecting it"

That was rewarded with a quick glance from Clay, although he only murmured a polite,

"Yes?"

WOMAN SHOOTS NEIGHBOR FOR POISONING DOG

What About Mothers Poisoned With Auto-Intoxication Nusing Babies Says World's Tonic Man.

A recent news item tells of a woman shooting a neighbor because he poisoned her dog—AND THE JURY SET HER FREE. There were several women on that jury too. If you burned a person at the stake for poisoning a baby the jury might vote you a medal and you'd deserve it But what about the mother, with a nursing babe at her breast, who is careless about proper elimination? What about the expectant mother who allows the poisons of constipation to reach the blood cells while new life is taking form within her? Why are some babies born thin and anemic and others husky and strong?

The World's Tonic man has talked with a lot of expectant mothers during his vast experiences. One condition stands out that should be classed as an offense worse by far than the poisoning of a dog for which the woman shot her neighbor. That is, allowing constipation to aid in lowering resistance to a point where mucous condition results. Poisonous mucous from irritated membranes in the head and throat often drops into the stomach. The stomach is the main source of supply for the red blood cell builders. The expectant mother, or the nursing mother, depends upon these blood cells for her own nourishment and can offer to her baby only that which she receives herself. A mother tells her story. Mrs. Edna Gilger of 115 Hostetter St., S. W. Massillon, Ohio.

"I was worried sick because I couldn't nurse my baby due to being run down from constipation A number of ills were brought on by this and I had a lot of gas and bloating pains My back would ache and I couldn't keep food on my stomach. I'd have night sweats and in the mornings my head and mouth would be full of mucous. I'd hawk and spit for several hours was frightened to go near the baby while this condition lasted.

"Just three bottles of World's Tonic put my constipation in such good shape that all its ailments are cleared away. My stomach is in grand shape and the back pains are gone. The mucous condition has left and I feel by now it is safe to nurse the baby again."

Skillful blending of roots and herbs with valuable alkalines enables World's Tonic to help prevent premature aging which poisons accumulating from constipation may bring on.

"You get your oil Free— (UP TO THE FULL MARK) if I forget to check it"

AN engine that hasn't enough oil in it is headed for the repair shop. And parts like pistons and bearings aren't cheap.

To help you skip repair costs, every Shell dealer makes you this proposition:

Drive into any one of our stations. If we don't check your oil without your telling us to, we will bring your oil level up to the full mark free.

We'll put in our Golden Shell, too, the oil that has been made especially for today's stop-and-go driving.

Maybe you never knew that stop and go calls for a certain kind of oil. Well, it does—and here's the reason why:

You average ten cold starts a day. If your oil is slow-flowing, one start can cause as much wear as 50 miles of steady running.

Golden Shell changes this. It's fast-flowing. The second you step on your starter, it coats each engine part with a tough oil film that doesn't break down . . . even under the heat of your steady running.

The Depression Can Be Ended.

DISCLOSURE that at least half of the relief clients in Cleveland are "unemployables" is not surprising.

Latest reports indicate that there are now 20,000,000 people in the United States on relief rolls. This is said to be 7,500,000 fewer than in 1934—but the list is growing.

The whole problem of unemployment, and of relief requirements, is complicated by apparent inability to differentiate between persons who are ordinarily able to earn a living but are temporarily out of a job, and those who are "unemployables" as a result of some physical or mental defect.

It cannot be doubted that policies of federal government for the past five years have been such as to add to public relief rolls several million persons who would otherwise have cared for themselves or depended upon relatives.

There have been many instances of record in which reasonably remunerative private employment has been turned down in favor of remaining on relief rolls or in WPA employment.

Attitude of the federal administration toward industry and business has also been such as to discourage enterprise, create uncertainty, tie up private capital, retard buying, reduce industrial employment, and bring on the entirely unnecessary depression in which the country is floundering.

When sane governmental procedure has been restored, with elimination of present frightful waste and adoption of a taxation plan that does not make the operation of business practically impossible, and when labor leadership changes from the attitude of being a constant threat against uninterrupted industrial production, there is every reason to believe that the United States will be in position to move toward an era of previously unequaled prosperity—with only a minor group of a few million "unemployables" to be cared for by the many millions who are employed.

America is a land of plenty. We have more natural resources than any other country. Even in this period of depression we can live, and are living on the whole, better than the people of any other nation. We have more skill, better machinery, greater business ability than can be found anywhere else in the world. In the final analysis the people of the United States can—and will— succeed, IN SPITE OF POLITICIANS AND VISIONARIES.

Gives Much, Asks Little.

QUITE NATURALLY, Mansfield's Community Fund campaign will continue to completion of the total of $53,950 required to sustain the essential community agencies partially supported by this fund.

With a large majority of the people of this city employed and with local banks and building and loan companies bulging with money earned in Mansfield, the slightly more than five thousand dollars standing between Community Fund workers and their goal, cannot be permitted to reflect on this prosperous city or on the public-spiritedness of its people.

Mansfield—and Mansfielders—are fortunate in having been so lightly touched by the depression. Except as inspired by uncertainty of the future, there has been little evidence of retrenchment in expenditures for either necessities or luxuries.

The agencies which participate in the Community Fund are not in the luxury class—they are NECESSITIES—without which Mansfield would not be a city where any law abiding person would wish to live.

Of course Mansfield people will subscribe the balance needed to reach the Community Fund goal—such is the spirit that has made this a good city in which to live and to work and to rear a family.

Turn Down State Lottery Scheme.

WHILE some form of gambling is apparently indulged in, at one time or another, by practically everyone, majority public sentiment seems to be against legal sanction of such commercialized gambling as a state-operated lottery or horse-race bookmaking.

Time after time, efforts have been made to carry such proposals through the state legislature—but always without success.

This week the house taxation committee of the legislature turned down proposals to finance relief by setting up a state lottery and licensing "bookie" joints.

In opposing the measure, one committee member said: "We'd be legalizing a thing that makes relief necessary and takes bread from the mouths of the poor."

Those who favor state lotteries and "bookie" licensing say that the public gambles anyhow, that large sums of money go regularly into games of chance, betting on horse races, foreign sweepstakes and pools of every sort, and that a part of this money should go into the public treasuries.

Commercialized gambling, like the liquor traffic and houses of prostitution, is so generally regarded as a "necessary evil" rather than as a constructive factor, that there is little likelihood of retrogression to the point of doing more than tolerating it for awhile longer.

Hobby Show Each Year.

SUCCESS of Mansfield's first hobby show, sponsored by the Junior Association of Commerce and the Y. M. C. A., was sufficient to justify the intention of these groups to make such an exhibit an annual event.

Experience in other cities has been that interest in a hobby show grows from year to year and that exhibits and attendance are attracted from larger areas.

The first of Mansfield's hobby shows was good—next year's should be better. Meanwhile, don't forget the value of cultivating a hobby.

"Snow White," on the screen, and Mae West in personal appearances, proved the season's strongest box office attractions—which clarifies the matter of what the public wants in entertainment.

New York state has banned delivery of liquor by telegraph—thus providing an additional safeguard against leakage.

Never bet on a "sure thing"—like Japan taking the conquest of China for granted.

Keeping Step

—By LESLIE EICHEL

RELIEF will remain a desperate problem the remainder of this year. In the end, the next election campaign may hinge on whether or not the federal government sets up a permanent relief program—a constructive one.

What is causing the crisis in various states now—particularly in Ohio and Illinois? These are among the "wealthiest" states in the nation, yet tens of thousands on relief are on the verge of starvation.

The answer is: Rural-dominated legislatures. In nearly every industrial state, the rural-dominated legislatures have refused to permit reorganization on lines of proportional representation. The huge industrial cities are barely represented; the majority of people in such states virtually are unrepresented in the legislatures.

Simplification of state governments will become necessary, in order to avert such tragedies as this relief crisis has become. A small one-house legislature of well-paid men, representing equally all parts of a state and a state manager, instead of a governor, are recommended by some.

* * *

HALF CANNOT WORK

Testifying before an Ohio state legislative committee in Cleveland, the city relief commissioner, Frank Buba, said that findings indicated nearly half the family heads on relief could not work. Why? Largely illness or physical disabilities.

Eighty per cent of those on direct relief were not eligible to WPA jobs, he added. And 42 per cent of the family heads on relief are women.

Those are challenging facts. Our socio-economic system has saddled us with a tremendous burden, for at least several generations to come. Failure to meet it in its true light will bring disaster. Not even the wealthiest nation can exist with such a handicap.

AUTOS

Many rumors have been circulating that auto plants may shut down for two months. They may be discounted. Sales have not reached even the level that the most pessimistic had visioned—but the companies have not entirely charged 1938 off their books.

Yet the next few months probably will be spent on preparing for the 1939 models. There is a possibility there will be more models in lower priced brackets next year. And there will be wide and eye-challenging changes in other models.

Incidentally, the 1939 season is scheduled to begin two weeks later than it did last November.

A few years hence, a 1938 model may seem a rarity, so comparatively few have been sold. Yet they are splendidly designed cars, for the most part. I have one—and do not regret the purchase.

HOUSING SITUATION

Writes W. H. Edwards of Spencer, Ind.:

"In the Terra Haute Tribune, there appear some statements of yours that may bear looking into further, to see what is really the matter with the federal housing situation, which you declare is desperate.

"That the housing situation is desperate there can be no denying. You declare that there is plenty of money available—but try to get it! We who would like to take advantage of the improvement clause of the housing act find that something has happened to that act that makes it almost a dead letter.

"My statements above are not guesswork, they are founded on my own experience and the experience of several others who have property which we would like to improve under the federal housing act.

RAT HOLES 'ROUND THE FLAGSTAFF

Foresee Doom of Rail Investments

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON—Most congressmen and government officials who have studied the situation, and practically all bankers, will tell you privately that government ownership of the railroads is inevitable. The financial situation of the railroads grows worse by the month.

More and more government money, via the R. F. C., is being poured into the doomed financial structures. Which merely means that they are tided over the immediate emergency, what ever it may be in each individual case, and therefore will have a harder row than ever to hoe from now on. For there will be interest, not to mention sinking fund, for the additional debt so kindly advanced by the government.

Politics being what it is, no one can think of any solution, not even President Roosevelt, who is more willing to be helpful to the railroads than to any other industry. Yet the apparent fate of the railroad companies is actually bad news for nearly everybody.

It is very bad for the stock and bondholders, of course. And in turn it is bad for the people with whom these investors have been spending their money, for obviously they will spend less when the "day" comes.

It is very bad for the treasuries, and therefore for the politicians and taxpayers of every state in the union. For at present the railroads are paying staggering amounts of taxes to state, county and city governments.

It is very bad for the federal treasury, for not only do the railroads pay a huge load of federal taxes direct to the treasury, but their officers, high-ranking employes and security holders sweeten their own individual income taxes no little because of the fact that the railroads are privately owned.

It is bad for the federal treasury, and therefore every living person (for everyone contributes heavily to the federal treasury, directly or indirectly, to an extent which very few realize) for another reason. Scarcely a single government official or member of congress believes that federal operation of the railroads will be as economical as private management. Hence the prospect is that when the day comes the railroads will quickly become a burden on the government.

* * *

POLITICS being what it is, no really drastic plan to avoid this approaching catastrophe seems likely of adoption. As a matter of fact, none is being proposed.

No man running for office, for example, would be likely to propose that the railroads be liberated from ALL regulation, to follow their own judgment or that of their individual officers, with a view to seeing if they could not work out their own salvation.

On the contrary, there has been very little criticism of the Interstate Commerce Commission for refusing recently to permit the railroads to increase certain rates, despite the fact that the I. C. C. made its decision not because it did not think the roads entitled to the additional money, but because it did not believe the proposed increases would result in additional earnings!

Commissioner Joseph B. Eastman dissented violently from the right of the commission to substitute its own judgment for that of railroad managers, though personally he admitted he did not think the increases would provide more revenue.

* * *

EVERY traffic man and most farmers, know that if roads were permitted to juggle rates as they pleased, they could often turn a pretty penny by cutting rates on perishable crops, providing they did not have to maintain the cut rates afterwards. But the feeling that this would be against public interest has prevented this ever being tried, though every store in the land can have a bargain Tuesday if it likes. This would probably be only a fly speck, anyway, but it does seem that somebody should suggest some way of avoiding a disaster.

Considering Birthrates.

Editor News-Journal:

Nine murders of women are laid, by a press dispatch, to a "sex-crazed madman." Nine innocent lives cruelly, horribly destroyed by one who should never have been born.

Eight northwestern European nations are systematically eliminating those born to be criminals, insane, blind, or carriers of hereditary disease. And, because each case disposed of leaves that much food for a highpower, the birthrate of the latter is speeded up accordingly.

Meanwhile America's legislation, the last decade has been, not eugenic, by dysgenic. Relief has so speeded up the birthrate of the 20 per cent lowpowers, they are now producing three children to two from the 80 per cent who support them. These latter cannot afford the 12 they should have in proportion. Eighty-three and a third per cent loss of highpowers is tragic. It means speedy engulfment of our civilization.

How long dare we delay reversing this trend?

Relating an Incident.

Editor News-Journal:

During the Ohio senate graft investigation, Harry A. Sparks, a bituminous engineer of the state highway department, was called before the investigating committee to testify about certain expenditures of public funds. If he did not tell the truth, he faced a term in the penitentiary for perjury and also a lifelong stricken conscience of disloyalty to his fellow taxpayers, and so he told the truth.

A few days later, and apparently because of his truthful testimony, his position was abolished.

From that administrative departmental act, the taxpayer can be justified in forming the conclusion that Governor Davey desires only untruthful persons to serve the public of Ohio in the state civil service.

You and Your Nation's Affairs

The Yearly-Wage Proposal.

By WALTER E. SPAHR
Professor of Economics, New York University.

The proposal to "solve" the "labor problem" by placing wage payments on a yearly basis is met with a surprising frequency. As I write this I have before me a magazine in which a certain industry and its president are featured as having accomplished something remarkable in arranging to pay their employes in fifty-two installments per year. If an employer can pay his employes on a yearly plan, and, if this is satisfactory to the employes, why should this not be done, and what is so remarkable about the arrangement? The implication of the featured story in the magazine was that other employers should do this, or that they would do so if only they were humane and liberal.

A business man not long ago insisted in a conversation with me that the labor problem could be solved if only all employes were given yearly contracts and were paid throughout the year. When I asked him how certain seasonal and irregular activities could operate under such a plan, he replied that all could do it and should be compelled to do it.

Not long ago, I was addressing a group of employes from various industries, and one of them contended that the yearly contract and evenly-distributed wage payment were the things needed to solve our major industrial problems.

These are merely samples of how this notion has taken hold of people. The disconcerting thing about it is the startling revelation of the crude and superficial thinking revealed by these people. Thoughtless advocacy of this yearly contract notion seems to be keeping pace with the foolish talk regarding minimum wages and maximum hours.

A large number of people seem to think it is sufficient, and that all difficulties are surmounted, if they say in defense of their notion that they wish to help labor, or that they are friends of labor, or that they are liberal or progressive. Wishful thinking, emotion, and unwillingness to face realities lead these people to advocate such labor "programs."

A reasonable amount of thought should make it clear that in some businesses and professions a yearly wage plan can operate satisfactorily and in others it cannot. To make such a program universal would be to create an appalling situation. For example, how could fruit growers pay their fruit pickers according to a yearly contract? How could the pickers of tomatoes or strawberries be placed on such a basis? How could farmers employ their extra harvesters on such a basis? How could house-painters be placed under a system of yearly contracts? Or the college boys who do odd jobs to work their way through college? Or the man who cleans or repairs your house, car or radio? And which employer must use the yearly contract—is it you who send for the repairman, or is it the garage or radio shop which sends out the repairman? How could new and experimental business begin if employes could be had only on a yearly basis? How could beginners get their start in life? It is hardly necessary to provide additional examples of the endless difficulties that would be met if any government were so foolish as to try to make such a program universal.

Little need be said about the minimum wage—maximum hour proposal beyond pointing out that if there is heavy unemployment at present wage rates, there will be more at higher wage rates. Shorter hours may not bring greater prosperity. They may bring higher unit costs, more machinery to replace labor, and more unemployment.

When people are oppressed by hard times, they must work harder and longer and at lower wages—at anything they can get. The nation is made up of individuals, and if each individual works harder, produces more, and improves his own position there will be a general improvement throughout the nation.

Listen, World!

Should Birth Processes Be Secret?

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

MODERN YOUTH is a spoiled brat . . . a shallow nitwit, without interest in the serious things of life."

We've heard that statement so often that we're staging a one-woman revolt . . . printing letters, this week, which should prove the contrary to many a carping critic.

Consider, f'rinstance, this Business of Birth, which Young America is supposed to have degraded by petting parties and free-for-all emotionalism. We herewith present an unsolicited opinion from John Damgaard, aged 20, of Colorado Springs, Colo.

Does this sound like the expression of a young roue? Or does it make the previous generation's attitude on this subject seem criminally stupid and downright dirty-minded?

"Dear Miss Robinson:

"In a recent issue of a national magazine there appeared several pictures showing the actual processes involved in the birth of a baby. It is interesting to note that many people hailed this type of published material as a triumph—a triumph in the sense that it presents, truthfully and courageously, the natural processes by which man is brought into the world. On the other hand there are some persons who maintain that such pictures should not be shown, on the grounds that they are immoral.

"Frankly I do not think that these pictures are licentious in any degree whatsoever. Miss Alice van Diest of the Colorado College faculty has this to say regarding the matter—

"'Pictures of crime and of gangsters and individuals who are insane are more immoral than pictures of the natural processes by which man propagates himself.'

"It is evident the present tendency is to allow greater dissemination of this type of material. Many outstanding doctors and professional men say it is best for both young and old people to 'get the right slant on matters involving sex and sex hygiene.'

"It is surprising to see how many people have prejudiced and distorted views on this subject. Instead of treating sex frankly, they dwell on it in a furtive, vulgar manner which is indeed immoral and which results in tragic consequences — alienated couples, broken homes, orphaned children . . . and women who regard child-bearing as a hideous burden. Indeed, statistics reveal that thousands of women die yearly in childbirth, due simply to their own ignorance . . . and their refusal to face essential facts.

"Such pictures give a clear and clean conception of a subject which has been barricaded in a dark cellar for generations. To reveal such vital truth is the highest possible social service. YOUNG AMERICA NEEDS AND DESIRES MORE OF SUCH INFORMATION. WHY SHOULD BIRTH BE KEPT A DIRTY SECRET . . . AND THOUSANDS DIE IN CONSEQUENCE?"

John Damgaard, 20 years,
Colorado Springs, Colo.

There's a letter which is both a vindication and a challenge. A vindication of youth's own claim to a mature and responsible viewpoint. A challenge to those who would brand such open discussion as "filthy and demoralizing."

The magazine issue to which John refers, and the movie on which it is based, are being shown in your town today—or have been, or soon will be. What do YOU think about them? Would YOU have them suppressed? Or do you endorse the service they give? This column wants to know.

Thirty-five years ago, such releases would have been impossible. Cherished tradition demanded that brides should go to their marriage innocent. God only knows what misery and terror, hatred, life-long alienation, invalid mothers and diseased babies sprang from such "innocence." Yet the old taboo still holds!

We realize, at last, that that taboo must go. Someone must teach the future fathers and mothers of America "the facts of life." But who will it be? The parents? But how many parents know enough truth, have sufficient comradeship with their children to impart that truth? The Church? But who in the Church will take the lead?

LET US HEAR YOUR SUGGESTIONS. AS A FATHER OR MOTHER, PRIEST, PASTOR OR EDUCATOR, WHO, IN YOUR OPINION, SHOULD GIVE OUR CHILDREN THIS VITAL INFORMATION?

OR WOULD YOU LEAVE THEM AT THE MERCY OF THEIR OWN IMPULSES . . . THEN PUNISH THEM BECAUSE NATURE ANSWERED THE QUESTION YOU DID NOT DARE TO FACE?

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Years ago a hard boiled editor who is now in Washington fixed me with a baleful eye and said: "Mister Cub, people like to read about a lot of things, but the things they like best are food and money. They may not think this is true, but it is true. They are always interested in food and money. Remember that."

That was a long time ago. And today comes a note from him, saying: "I'll be in your town Thursday and I'm not interested in chorus girls or looking out of skyscraper windows. Just lead me to a nice, quiet place where the emphasis is on the dinner."

Well, I ought to give him a big build-up and then take him to the noisiest honky-tonk in town and get him ill on greasy, poorly prepared hot-dogs.

* * *

BUT I won't. I'm going to take him to what in this correspondent's opinion is the most gratifying restaurant in all New York to dine. It's a Swedish restaurant, where there are no pony choruses, no comedians, no scintillating stars of the theatrical world, no giggling debutantes getting their noses tickled with champagne.

The only thing in the world to recommend it is (1) its food, and (2) its service.

You drift in, say, about eight o'clock. And you give your hat to a Viking's daughter, and then a nice person in a perfectly casual way says, "Good evening," and leads you to a comfortable table. And you sit down. You sit down in a chair that is actually comfortable.

Then, when if the passing thought that a few hors d'oeuvres might be acceptable prods your attention, you get up—unhurriedly of course—and wander over to a sea of complex, undefinable, nameless, but tasty dishes. There are perhaps two hundred of these to choose from, and so you make a careful circumference of the table, piling your plate with far more than you really desire, and back to your nice comfortable chair you go, there to munch and taste and toy with them until the main dinner comes along.

* * *

THE dinner! This is a simple but elegantly prepared dinner of your own choice of meats and vegetables. . . . But, alas, you have gorged on so many hors d'oeuvres that putting away a duck, or shall we say a portion of sugared Virginia ham, is quite out of the question. But you touch a steak with your knife and it falls open. It is so delicious and tender it melts in your mouth.

So you quite contentedly sit there and make a supreme pig of yourself. You keep on until it is past the point of being funny. Of course, there is much that you can not possibly make way with (a pity, oo) and this is especially true in the Swedish restaurants. For there, or so it has seemed to me, a man's capacity is always exceeded by his longings. He may dine until he can't find room for another mushroom, but his palate still is willing. That's what the Swedish restaurants do for you, and that's what I have in mind for that gruff-voiced ex-army officer of an editor who always used to address me as "Mister Cub."

Timely Editorial

Sensible Decision.

Out of Washington comes announcement that the proposal to create a powerful government radio station to blast propaganda over South America is shelved "for this session."

It should be abandoned for all time!

The good neighbor policy toward South American peoples has general approval in the United States. To bawl our opinions to other nations is not neighborly; it is impertinence!

The neighbors would be quite within their rights to ask us how we are handling our domestic problems, and we might be embarrassed. We have enough to do to straighten out our own tangles without mixing in the afairs of other nations.

Slip word to your congressman, when he comes home for vacation, that this government radio proposition must be squelched.—Detroit News.

WORLD FAMOUS TRAVELER VISITS THE MIDWEST

Burton Holmes,

ADVENTURER . . . EXPLORER OF THE GLOBE . . . says

"I've just discovered Ohio!

. . . IT'S A LAND OF SURPRISES!"

● "You folks in Ohio have a lot of things to be proud of—things that make Ohio more than a vacation land. It's a land of surprises!

"You know I've been most everywhere on this old globe of ours, I've trekked in Africa and ridden in Chinese 'rickshaws.' I've looked at the Sphinx and watched the not-so-blue waters of the Danube. And after all of that, I considered myself pretty well traveled.

"Then, not so long ago, I took a jaunt out to our own middle west and visited your State of Ohio—a State that everyone takes for granted as a well settled, industrial region. But behind all its modern trappings I found there's more to see, admire and wonder at than could be done in a week of Sundays! And I'm still seeing . . . dozens of things which I'll tell you about later.

"How many of you Ohioans have ever traveled along the beautiful south shore of Lake Erie? Some of the finest bathing beaches in the world there, plenty of room for sailing and fishing and no lack of hotels and resorts of all kinds to make a week-end trip thoroughly delightful and refreshing.

"Hill country? Just drive down into Carroll county and over thru Coshocton. There are some of the finest views I've ever set these eyes upon.

"Historical places? Ohio is just covered with them. You can go from one end of the state to the other and see places where history was made —where civilization fought its way thru primitive lands and planted the foundations of today's modern miracle.

"And the 'miracle' of it all is the ease with which you can reach these places. Ohio's roads are among the best—it's no trouble at all to drive thru Ohio-land. And that does mean something to a traveler who's thumped and rumbled over some of the world's worst roads looking for adventure. I've photographed some of the places for you . . . but you really can't appreciate them by pictures. So, get out on the road . . . discover Ohio for yourself!"

TREASON TRIAL OUTCOME VITAL TO EUROPEANS

Fate of Rumania's 'Hitler' Involves Political Future of Central Powers.

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(AP Foreign Affairs Writer)

NEW YORK—If the thunder over Czechoslovakia weren't so distracting, it would be easier to recognize an event of world importance in the treason trial of Corneliu Codreanu, that hypnotic personality known as the "Hitler of Rumania."

This colorful organizer and leader, who is an exponent of direct action, is charged with plotting to overthrow his government and establish the Nazi brand of Fascism.

But the verdict will be bigger than Codreanu, or even Rumania.

The political complexion of central and eastern Europe—maybe all Europe—is involved.

The vital issue is whether Rumania is heading into the Nazi-Fascist corral. Adherence of Rumania to the Hitler faith would give great impetus to the Nazi dictator's program for expansion and extension of power.

Long Sought Power.

Irrespective of the specific charges against Codreanu in this trial, this youthful "fuehrer," as he has described himself in imitation of Hitler, is an avowed follower of Naziism and long has been seeking power.

Whether Codreanu has any direct connection with Germans doesn't matter. He draws his inspiration from Nazidom.

Naturally, he is anti-communistic and anti-semitic. Indeed, as a mere youth he shot and killed the police prefect of Jassy for using great severity in suppressing anti-Jewish student riots, though a jury acquitted him.

Should Rumania go Nazi, this would give Hitler another out-and-out supporter, and a powerful one. It would help him extend his control through Czechoslovakia and the Balkans, and would be invaluable aid in event he should decide to make the conquest of the Russian Ukraine which many Germans long have expected.

Hard pressed Czechoslovakia would lose the only real friend she has among the nations touching her borders. That would complete the economic squeeze which Germany is putting on her. The little entente—Czechoslovakia, Rumania and Yugoslavia—would be irrevocably smashed, removing an anti-German, pro-French combination which has been a thorn in the side of Germany.

A Farmer's Diary

By Calvin A. Byers

LAST evening when the chores were done, I planted 400 tomato plants. They were large and when pulled from the cold frame, a great amount of dirt clung to the roots. I wrapped each hundred in wet cloths and then damp paper around this. They kept fresh without sign of withering for a night and one warm day.

Since the soil was new ground and poorly plowed, the heavy sods were in many places right near the surface. I discarded the spade as a means of making holes for the plants, and pointed rather bluntly a stick and made small round holes deep enough to place the plant four inches above its roots.

It was a pleasant task. The soil was damp and mellow, and so filled with roots and decayed plant life that it had a very spongy texture, much like leavened bread. What a reservoir for moisture. I thought, and how warm will be the growing plant roots as they move through the soft earth.

I took off my own shoes and socks so that I might feel this rich loamy soil. A velvet carpet was never woven that so touched one's aching soles at just the proper places. My toes sank into the soft seed bed and I stopped my work long enough to bury my feet and pile the good earth ankle high. I wondered if the tomato plants, standing all about, felt pleasure as I did.

The ring-necked pheasant made his broken call from the hedge near-by. Another answered from the grassy meadow. The larks' notes came, clear and sweet, the quail whistled loudly from the sheltered fence row. Then, as if to see my work, one ventured from his cover, stood almost upright and ran at intervals across the road before me. The oriole warbled in the thick top of the apple tree but did not let himself be seen, the killdee flew across the garden and ran through the field beyond the house. A solitary waterfowl with outstretched neck, winged high across the evening sky and slowly disappeared.

I thought how rich I was to smell the sweet fragrance of the fertile soil; to work with a soft blue sky above and songs of nature around me. Adam and Eve, in their first fruitful garden, never did enjoy a more pleasant place.

Book of the Week

"The Thought Reading Machine," by Andre Maurois, (Harpers: $2).

* * *

Andre Maurois' faculty has drawn him into deep water. It has led him to write "The Thought-Reading Machine," which is a satire of manners in a philosophical vein, and excellent, easy reading. Even in translation it has the neatness of good French prose, which is probably due to the intelligence of James Whitall's work as well as to the style of the author.

In any case, this is the underlying idea. A French professor, whose great interest in life is Balzac, receives a bid from an American college of high repute to deliver a series of lectures. He decides to accept, in spite of the doubts of his wife's family.

At Westmouth he is given a charming house, and next door, in another charming house, he finds a great English physicist and his wife. One day he finds that the physicist can read his thoughts—and is greatly disturbed. But Hickey, which is the Englishman's name, explains that this is due to no psychic power, but to a machine, which he demonstrates forthwith. Then Professor Dumoulin takes the machine home, and tries it on his disaffected wife.

What he learns precipitates a quarrel, but the reconciliation that follows is the basis of a better understanding than they have had for some time.

The machine becomes a possible aid in straightening the affairs of the world, in Dumoulin's mind; when later it is used to defeat the designs of the faculty villain, both Hickey and Dumoulin feel that President Spencer of the college is correct in demanding that the discovery be announced.

Almost at once the hand of commerce takes hold. There are millions in the invention, millions which interest the inventor only because he can use them in his laboratories. When Dumoulin returns to France, he takes with him the French agency. And at this point the synopsis must end, for the psychograph is not quite what it seemed, and the reason is too complicated for exposition here.

Besides an amusing central thought, Maurois has made a number of people very clear in the reader's eye, and has rapped some of our fixed ideas quite viciously.

Many girls have asked for a book on the order of Edna Ferber's "Showboat," but, until recently, there wasn't one to give them. Then along came Rose B. Knox, already well-known for her southern stories. She produced "Footlights Afloat," a story well worth waiting for and one that will be popular with older girls who like something different.

The showboat was called "King's New Wonder" and it was the marvel of the Mississippi river. The captain was Lysander King, a middle-aged magician. The family included Kitty, his young wife, Donald and Edel Keith and their two little girls, Janet and Cecile, and young Denny Pedro. They all lived on the showboat. By day, they floated down the river. At night, they tied up to some dock and gave a performance, calculated to make their audience shiver and moan and, of course, hiss the villain and cheer the dashing young hero!

GLOBE GIRDLING SCRIBE TELLS OF PUZZLING WORLD

New Frazier Hunt Book Among Non-Fiction Additions at Library.

"One American and His Attempt at Education," which is among the leading non-fiction additions at the Mansfield Public library this week-end, reports in vigorous style the numerous assignments which Frazier Hunt has had in various parts of the world.

Through all his travels and interviews with important leaders in many countries, this correspondent has tried to understand a bewildering world.

The Pulitzer prize play, "Our Town" by Thornton Wilder, depicts the life of a small New Hampshire village, with its humor and picturesqueness. The play is unusual, depending little on setting and much on explanatory remarks of one character who is called the stage manager. The lines are simple, but with overtones of real beauty, as was the author's "Bridge of San Luis Rey."

"Out of Africa" by Isak Dinesen, gives his impressions gained while operating a coffee plantation in Kenya.

Collectors of Currier and Ives prints will enjoy two volumes compiled by Fred J. Peters, which serves as pictorial lists of their "Clipper Ship Prints." "Including Other Merchants Sailing Vessels," and "Railroads, Indian and Pioneer Prints."

Life of Typical Family.

"Remember The Day" by Kenneth Horan is a series of humorous episodes in the life of a typical American family during the 1890's.

Non-fiction this week includes: "Advancing Front of Science" by Gray. "American Wings: Modern Aviation for Everyone" by Leyson. "Motion and Time Study" by Barnes. "Eugene O'Neill' by Winther. "Heroes of the Alcazar" by Timmermans. "Hotel in Spain" by Johnstone. "Mexico's Own Chronicle" by Fulton & Horgan. "The Goncourt Journals, 1851-1870" by Edmond & Jules de Goncourt, edited and translated by Galantiere. "Roosevelt—And Then" by High.

Dorothea Brande's new novel, "My Invincible Aunt" is a cleverly written contrast of two temperaments, one of whom was forever skeptical and the other always serenely confident. And the one who was confident had a beauty secret for all womankind, free for the taking. This interesting story of Star Williams and her Aunt Kit is an addition to the fiction shelves at the library.

A social problem that is present everywhere is understandably presented in "The Marsh" by Ernest Raymond. In the life of Danny Counsel, a boy of East London who, doomed by environment, sinks to a life of crime, there is the argument between the laborers whose lot it is to live on The Marsh and the masters of capital who live on The Hill.

"Out of The Roaring Loom" by Ethel Hull Miller portrays life in the Western Reserve of Ohio, in the early days when wagon trains came out from Connecticut.

Other fiction this week includes "Mayor on Horseback," by Oppenheim; "Persian Journey" by Groseclose; "Stubbs At Fifty," Pocock; "When Autumn's Here" by Shawell.

Three new books are being added to the John Baxter Black Memorial collection. A striking collection of photographs is "The River" prepared by Pare Lorentz from the motion picture which he produced for the Farm Security administration.

"The Culture of Cities" by Lewis Mumford tells the story of how cities have grown, from the medieval town to the modern metropolis.

A story of a man sky-rocketed by ambitions beyond his control, "What People Said" by William Lindsay White, sketches an imaginary town, Athena, Oklarada, in which politics and finance finally cause a scandal involving the leading citizens.

Minneapolis Labor Leader Slain, Organizer Confesses

FOUGHT OVER UNION FUNDS, SUSPECT SAYS

New Murder Flares as Police Complete Probe of Three Other Slayings.

(By United Press)

MINNEAPOLIS—Arnold Ralph Johnson, 33, confessed today that he killed William S. Brown, 41, president of the general drivers' union, because of a disagreement over union funds.

Chief of Detectives James Mullins announced that Johnson, an organizer for the union, signed a statement that he shot Brown to death last night "because I thought he had too much money and we had argued about union funds."

Johnson was taken into custody early today after he had boasted to Brown's associates about the slaying. He said he had been drinking with Brown earlier.

Faces Murder Charge.

"I plan to place a charge of murder against him today," Mullins said.

Brown was slain as authorites abandoned their investigation of the assassination of Patrick J. Corcoran, vice president of the Minneapolis Federation of Labor. Corcoran was slain six months ago.

Also unsolved were the killings of Walter Liggett and Howard Guilford, Twin Cities weekly newspaper publishers, whose papars had carried editorials about Minneapolis and St. Paul labor problems.

Brown was one of five prominent Twin Cities labor leaders threatened with assassination last November shortly before Corcoran was slain. Mullins said he did not think it probable that Brown's death was linked with the threats.

Brown's body was found about 9:30 p. m. by a passerby. It was slumper in the front seat of his sedan, parked in a business section. The passerby believed Brown was intoxicated and summoned police.

They found the body on the floor. He had been shot twice through the head.

Mt. Vernon Jury Refuses Mercy for Knox Wife-Killer.

MT. VERNON — (INS) — Fred Mosley, 45-year-old farmer, today awaited sentencing to the electric chair, a penalty made mandatory late yesterday when a jury of nine men and three women returned a verdict of guilty of first degree murder without mercy in the slaying of his wife, Philla, last March 31.

Mrs. Mosley, shot twice and beaten on the head by a revolver butt, died instantly. Mosley, a World war veteran, claimed temporary insanity

Mosley's three sons testified that their father killed their mother. The trial was the first in Knox county in 10 years to charge first degree murder.

LOGAN, O.—(AP)—Allen F. McBroom, 83, former Hocking county prosecutor, was charged today with shooting with intent to kill 18-year-old William Freeman.

McBroom was jailed after Freeman was wounded in the chest when he and Mary Brooks visited the attorney's home seeking advice as to how they could obtain a marriage license.

Neighbors informed Sheriff Joe Farbeann that McBroom had complained of being annoyed by youths in the neighborhood and that he was under the impression someone was trying to persecute him.

Three employes of the store told police they had seen Bonnar sitting on the ledge of a seventh floor window a few minutes before his body was found. Two of them tried to reach the office in which the window is located, police were informed, but were too late.

Coroner William M. Shapiro said his verdict would be "suicide due to ill health."

U. S. Launches Inquiry In Airliner's Crash

Up and Down THE STREET

Although Mansfield's Northwest Territory observance ended more than three weeks ago, the Chamber of Commerce is still receiving requests from various parts of the country for the commemorative wooden nickels, one coming from as far as Butte, Mont. As a result, Paul W. Williams, secretary-manager of the chamber is considering sending out a circular letter notifying various cities that the supply is exhausted. He says it would be less expensive than returning money enclosed with the requests.

More than a week ago an unusual appeal came to this corner from the Pennsylvania freight office. . . ."A nest of three new robins is on a freight car that just rolled in. The mother's gone and the birds will die in a few hours if they aren't cared for." . . . A member of the Audubon society (which is for the conservation of nature and wild life) was called and she went after the birdlings. . . . Every hour she fed them bits of worms and a few drops of water. . . . Today they are all feathered out, can fly a little and are so tame that they leap to her shoulder and scamper over her hands and arms. She'll care for them until they fly away from the nest for the last time.

Shelby's chief of police, Leroy E. Coffey, former Mansfield officer, is going to have his hands full over the week-end holiday. Sunday morning Coffey will occupy the pulpit at the Park Avenue Baptist church here, and in the afternoon will deliver the Memorial day address at the Shiloh Lutheran church. He will participate in the memorial exercises in Shelby Monday morning and give another Memorial day address in Loudonville in the afternoon. In addition, Coffey will keep an eye on the operations of his police department.

One of the displays at the Y. M. C. Morrison has envelopes containing 48 different cachets, representing one city in each of the 48 states. Each envelope tells in some way for what each particular city is noted.

EIGHT INDICTED

Tammany Leader Accused in Gotham Policy Racket.

NEW YORK—(INS)—James J. Hines, 61-year-old Tammany Hall leader, was indicted by the extraordinary grand jury today as a king-pin in the $100,000,000-a-year policy racket, said to have been run by the "Dutch" Schultz gang.

Seven others, including J. Richard ("Dixie") Davis, attorney for the late "Dutch" Schultz, also were indicted.

This action came on the heels of the arrest late yesterday of Hines at the instigation of District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey, New York's famous racket prosecutor. Dewey accused Hines of being a member of the Schultz ring.

The linking of Hines with the Schultz mob has created a furore in political circles. For years Hines has been dominant in Tammany politics and a dispenser of federal patronage in New York city.

HUNT BODIES OF 250 BELIEVED KILLED BY INSURGENT BOMBERS

(By Associated Press)

ALICANTE, Spain — Rescuers dug steadily today in the ruins of Alicante's shattered market place, extricating victims of yesterday's most disastrous single air bombardment of the Spanish civil war.

At least 250 persons were killed and 1,000 injured when six huge insurgent bombing planes circled suddenly in the sky and dropped their missiles squarely in the market place where hundreds of women waited to buy food.

The thundering detonations toppled towering masonry into dugouts into which men, women and children had crowded for refuge.

Many bodies were tangled and torn to bits.

The casualties in the city of 70,000, which is 130 miles south of Valencia, far exceeded in proportion the disastrous series of air raids in March upon Barcelona, a city of more than 1,000,000 when there were 3,000 fatalies.

More than 100 of the victims were found in the market place alone. Outside Alicante 50 were killed and hundreds injured.

Alicante caught the brunt of insurgent air attacks in which more than 100 heavy bombers shuttled back and forth all day yesterday from the island base of Mallorca to governmental coastal cities and towns, unloading explosives.

Sagunto, most-raided government-held city near the coast, was visited by 38 bombers which dropped 95 missiles. Thirty casualties were reported and 40 buildings were destroyed.

The 1,250-ton British freighter Thorpehall was sunk with 3,000 tons of wheat in Valencia harbor. All the crew was saved though three sailors were injured.

Dozens of ther villages along the coast were bombed.

BOARD TO VISIT SCENE OF CRASH FATAL TO TEN

Bodies of Victims Identified, Sent Home for Burial as Investigation Opens.

(By International News Service)

CLEVELAND—A four-man bureau of air commerce committee today plunged into an official investigation of the United Air Lines "Mainliner" crash that cost 10 lives Tuesday night.

The committee as a whole was to visit the scene of the accident, a wooded ravine eight miles east of Cleveland airport.

Bryan M. Jacobs, assistant director of the bureau of air commerce and chairman of the committee, and George W. West, chief of the bureau's enforcement division, flew here from Washington last night.

The other members, Philip O. Salzman, air maintenance inspector stationed at Newark, N. J., and Maj. Clarence D. Barnhill, commander of the 112th observation, Ohio National Guard, were already here and had visited the scene of the crash as part of a preliminary investigation. The committee was named by Daniel C. Roper, secretary of commerce.

Bodies Sent Home.

Meanwhile, all but one of the bodies of the victims of the crash had been sent home for funeral services and burial. After identification of the bodies and an examination in county morgue, Coroner S. R. Gerber said that death had been caused by fire, although the shock of the crash probably was enough to render all unconscious.

United Air Lines officials were expected to appear before the board to support their contention that "simultaneous power failure of both engines" was responsible for the crash, and that the fire probably occurred after the moment of impact.

Dennis Mulligan, chief of the bureau of air commerce, said in Washington that particular attention would be given to eye-witnesses who reported the plane was in flames before it struck the trees in the ravine.

"We have had considerable experience with these eye-witness reports," he said, "and in most cases they did not stand up after more intensive investigation."

Experienced observers here were inclined to believe that flame from the exhaust of one of the engines had been mistaken for fire in the plane, the United's statement said.

FAIR ENOUGH!

So Il Duce and His Big Black Shirts Don't Like It When They're Kidded

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—Last week your correspondent composed two little essays kidding the rompers off Benito Mussolini, his inflexible will and his invincible black shirt legions. For all these years Mussolini had been popping his eyes, shoving out that property chin of his, waving his fancy dress bread knife, such as footsore suburban husbands wear at their belts at the annual costume party of the Junior League, and telling the world what he was going to do to Philadelphia Jack O'Brien.

Now, everybody in Italy knows that the Black Shirts are only militia and that, far from being invincible, they are not so hot. The army has contempt for them, and the Duce himself has a realistic, private estimate of their worth.

There came a time in Spain when the invincible Black Shirts got into a clumsy mix-up and, due to no fault of the rank and file but to a mistake of their commander, were chased by the Spanish rabble of which Mussolini had spoken so contemptuously.

This might happen to any green army and be forgotten, but Mussolini had sounded off so loud and long about his inflexible will and his invincible legions that he had put his inflexible will and his Black Shirts on a spot.

That "inflexible will" stuff is too tempting to be resisted when the will does flex. The same goes for that "invincibility stuff." No man's will is inflexible against the world, and any outfit which claims to be invincible had better be, if it doesn't want to be kidded when it isn't.

* * *

Your correspondent is still combing bricks, mortar and fragments of shattered bottle glass out of his scalp. The Fascists went nuts. Some of the letters would stifle a wet billy goat, and all of them are full of annoyance, although both compositions were only the faintest imitations of the kind of stuff that Mussolini, in his pep talks, and his journalistic yes-men, in print, have been heaving at the world in general for years.

The Americans have long had a reputation among the Europeans for boastfulness, and this is not to say it wasn't earned, although the American boasting had to do mostly with the height of our buildings, the extent of the country, the richness and wastefulness of the American people and the cost, in millions, of our libraries, jails, state universities, city halls and sewage plants.

* * *

The Americans had dough; they regarded European money, which is reckoned in small units, as funny money and would toss tips to the mayors of European towns and commanders of European warships whose uniforms were pardonably confused with the lion tamers' costumes worn by carriage starters at European hotels.

They undoubtedly were offensive, but their boasting didn't run much to military matters, for most of them didn't know a squad from a group of armies. Moreover, they had a low opinion of European aristocracy, honestly derived from the notorious conduct of the high-born he-trollops of the old world who came over here to marry rich little American females for their money.

* * *

American principles have corroded somewhat since then, but in those days Americans had a feeling that a man with no money who married a rich girl and moved into her set sacrificed his manhood.

But never did the Americans blab about their inflexible will or their invincible legions, as Mussolini and, more lately, Hitler have done. Although we used to twist the old lion's tail for fun on dull days in congress and in our papers, this sport never developed the ripe, insulting scurrility of the expressions which Mussolini and his journalists have dished to all and sundry.

* * *

Mussolini and his press finally reached a point where they apparently convinced themselves that the lack of response in kind was due to awe of this inflexible will and his invincible legions. The truth was that most countries were amused and couldn't be bothered to talk back. Moreover, most of it wasn't even reported outside Italy.

Nothing said or printed here even approaches the viciousness of the internal propaganda in Italy against other peoples or the threats which have been sounding through Italy against various nations in turn and in groups.

A bulldozer can't take kidding, however. Even mild kidding which touches him on his vanity drives him crazy, and the easiest way to get a Fascist's goat is to needle him a slight jab on the subject of the inflexible will and the invincible Black Shirts and then say "Guadalajara."

Hollywood Speaks—

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—They said musicals were on the downgrade, so this week's major preview offerings—three of them—were lyrical through and through.

Best of the lot, for my time, is "Cocoanut Grove," a pleasantly tuneful item which starts out dully enough and then suddenly picks up interest and builds from there rather steadily. The pick-up occurs, I believe, with the introduction of a catchy piece called "Says My Heart," sung by Harriet Hilliard and played—in a trailer camp setting—by Harry Owens and his Royal Hawaiian orchestra, which makes mighty good music.

The story asks you to care whether a run-down orchestra led by Fred MacMurray ever gets across country to try out for the Los Angeles night spots which gives the film its title. Strangely, because the music is good and most of the specialties engaging, I found myself caring enough to be interested.

MacMurray sings "You Leave Me Breathless," breathlessly but acceptably. Ben Blue and Eve Arden do comedy dances. Rufe Davis works in some imitations and songs, and the Yacht Club Boys fill in any gaps. Little Billy Lee on the traps is a high spot. Alfred Santell's direction, like the picture, is good when it gets under way.

In "Cocoanut Grove" one dance orchestra tries to impersonate another and is foiled, the intended victim being the hero's band. In "Gold Diggers In Paris" one dance troupe impersonates another and gets away with it, unethically but satisfactorily if, as you're supposed to be, you're on the hero's side.

* * *

The new "Gold Diggers," like its predecessors, is a combination of girls, gags, specialties and tunes in a story that doesn't matter much anyway. Some of its humor is strained, most of it depends on the able rescue work of Hugh Herbert, Allen Jenkins, Melville Cooper, Fritz Feld, Ed Brophy and Curt Bois, all spotted in supporting roles. Also loudly present is the Schnickelfritz band, hot, corny and comic.

Rudy Vallee, singing as usual, a little less wooden than usual in his acting, very funny in his imitation of Chevalier, is the hero, in love with Rosemary Lane. When Gloria Dickson, the heavy, is on the screen you can forget Rudy and Rosie and watch a girl who ought to get better assignments than this one. (She had one, remember, in "They Won't Forget.") Ray Enright directed, with Busby Berkeley doing the dances. Zippiest tune: "I Wanna Go Back to Bali."

Minneapolis Labor Leader Slain, Organizer Confesses

FOUGHT OVER UNION FUNDS, SUSPECT SAYS

New Murder Flares as Police Complete Probe of Three Other Slayings.

(By United Press)

MINNEAPOLIS—Arnold Ralph Johnson, 33, confessed today that he killed William S. Brown, 41, president of the general drivers' union, because of a disagreement over union funds.

Chief of Detectives James Mullins announced that Johnson, an organizer for the union, signed a statement that he shot Brown to death last night "because I thought he had too much money and we had argued about union funds."

Johnson was taken into custody early today after he had boasted to Brown's associates about the slaying. He said he had been drinking with Brown earlier.

Faces Murder Charge.

"I plan to place a charge of murder against him today," Mullins said.

Brown was slain as authorites abandoned their investigation of the assassination of Patrick J. Corcoran, vice president of the Minneapolis Federation of Labor. Corcoran was slain six months ago.

Also unsolved were the killings of Walter Liggett and Howard Guilford, Twin Cities weekly newspaper publishers, whose papars had carried editorials about Minneapolis and St. Paul labor problems.

Brown was one of five prominent Twin Cities labor leaders threatened with assassination last November shortly before Corcoran was slain. Mullins said he did not think it probable that Brown's death was linked with the threats.

Brown's body was found about 9:30 p. m. by a passerby. It was slumper in the front seat of his sedan, parked in a business section. The passerby believed Brown was intoxicated and summoned police.

They found the body on the floor. He had been shot twice through the head.

EIGHT INDICTED

Tammany Leader Accused in Gotham Policy Racket.

NEW YORK—(INS)—James J. Hines, 61-year-old Tammany Hall leader, was indicted by the extraordinary grand jury today as a king-pin in the $100,000,000-a-year policy racket, said to have been run by the "Dutch" Schulttz gang.

Seven others, including J. Richard ("Dixie") Davis, attorney for the late "Dutch" Schultz, also were indicted.

This action came on the heels of the arrest late yesterday of Hines at the instigation of District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey, New York's famous racket prosecutor. Dewey accused Hines of being a member of the Schultz ring.

The linking of Hines with the Schultz mob has created a furore in political circles. For years Hines has been dominant in Tammany politics and a dispenser of federal patronage in New York city.

BOARD TO VISIT SCENE OF CRASH FATAL TO TEN

Bodies of Victims Identified, Sent Home for Burial as Investigation Opens.

CLEVELAND—A four-man bureau of air commerce committee today plunged into an official investigation of the United Air Lines "Mainliner" crash that cost 10 lives Tuesday night.

The committee as a whole was to visit the scene of the accident, a wooded ravine eight miles east of Cleveland airport.

Bryan M. Jacobs, assistant director of the bureau of air commerce and chairman of the committee, and George W. West, chief of the bureau's enforcement division, flew here from Washington last night.

LEARNS HIS LESSON

MARION — (UP) — "Teacher knows best" was burned into Jack Hecker, 14, today by a 2,200-volt power line. He was told not to climb a tree, but he did. Power had to be shut off to release him from the wire. He suffered only burns.

FAIR ENOUGH!

So Il Duce and His Big Black Shirts Don't Like It When They're Kidded

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—Last week your correspondent composed two little essays kidding the rompers off Benito Mussolini, his inflexible will and his invincible black shirt legions. For all these years Mussolini had been popping his eyes, shoving out that property chin of his, waving his fancy dress bread knife, such as footsore suburban husbands wear at their belts at the annual costume party of the Junior League, and telling the world what he was going to do to Philadelphia Jack O'Brien.

Now, everybody in Italy knows that the Black Shirts are only militia and that, far from being invincible, they are not so hot. The army has contempt for them, and the Duce himself has a realistic, private estimate of their worth.

There came a time in Spain when the invincible Black Shirts got into a clumsy mix-up and, due to no fault of the rank and file but to a mistake of their commander, were chased by the Spanish rabble of which Mussolini had spoken so contemptuously.

This might happen to any green army and be forgotten, but Mussolini had sounded off so loud and long about his inflexible will and his invincible legions that he had put his inflexible will and his Black Shirts on a spot.

That "inflexible will" stuff is too tempting to be resisted when the will does flex. The same goes for that "invincibility stuff." No man's will is inflexible against the world, and any outfit which claims to be invincible had better be, if it doesn't want to be kidded when it isn't.

* * *

Your correspondent is still combing bricks, mortar and fragments of shattered bottle glass out of his scalp. The Fascists went nuts. Some of the letters would stifle a wet billy goat, and all of them are full of annoyance, although both compositions were only the faintest imitations of the kind of stuff that Mussolini, in his pep talks, and his journalistic yes-men, in print, have been heaving at the world in general for years.

The Americans have long had a reputation among the Europeans for boastfulness, and this is not to say it wasn't earned, although the American boasting had to do mostly with the height of our buildings, the extent of the country, the richness and wastefulness of the American people and the cost, in millions, of our libraries, jails, state universities, city halls and sewage plants.

* * *

The Americans had dough; they regarded European money, which is reckoned in small units, as funny money and would toss tips to the mayors of European towns and commanders of European warships whose uniforms were pardonably confused with the lion tamers' costumes worn by carriage starters at European hotels.

They undoubtedly were offensive, but their boasting didn't run much to military matters, for most of them didn't know a squad from a group of armies. Moreover, they had a low opinion of European aristocracy, honestly derived from the notorious conduct of the high-born he-trollops of the old world who came over here to marry rich little American females for their money.

* * *

American principles have corroded somewhat since then, but in those days Americans had a feeling that a man with no money who married a rich girl and moved into her set sacrificed his manhood.

But never did the Americans blab about their inflexible will or their invincible legions, as Mussolini and, more lately, Hitler have done. Although we used to twist the old lion's tail for fun on dull days in congress and in our papers, this sport never developed the ripe, insulting scurrility of the expressions which Mussolini and his journalists have dished to all and sundry.

* * *

Mussolini and his press finally reached a point where they apparently convinced themselves that the lack of response in kind was due to awe of this inflexible will and his invincible legions. The truth was that most countries were amused and couldn't be bothered to talk back. Moreover, most of it wasn't even reported outside Italy.

Nothing said or printed here even approaches the viciousness of the internal propaganda in Italy against other peoples or the threats which have been sounding through Italy against various nations in turn and in groups.

A bulldozer can't take kidding, however. Even mild kidding which touches him on his vanity drives him crazy, and the easiest way to get a Fascist's goat is to needle him a slight jab on the subject of the inflexible will and the invincible Black Shirts and then say "Guadalajara."

Hollywood Speaks—

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—They said musicals were on the downgrade, so this week's major preview offerings—three of them—were lyrical through and through.

Best of the lot, for my time, is "Cocoanut Grove," a pleasantly tuneful item which starts out dully enough and then suddenly picks up interest and builds from there rather steadily. The pick-up occurs, I believe, with the introduction of a catchy piece called "Says My Heart," sung by Harriet Hilliard and played—in a trailer camp setting—by Harry Owens and his Royal Hawaiian orchestra, which makes mighty good music.

The story asks you to care whether a run-down orchestra led by Fred MacMurray ever gets across country to try out for the Los Angeles night spots which gives the film its title. Strangely, because the music is good and most of the specialties engaging, I found myself caring enough to be interested.

MacMurray sings "You Leave Me Breathless," breathlessly but acceptably. Ben Blue and Eve Arden do comedy dances, Rufe Davis works in some imitations and songs, and the Yacht Club Boys fill in any gaps. Little Billy Lee on the traps is a high spot. Alfred Santell's direction, like the picture, is good when it gets under way.

In "Cocoanut Grove" one dance orchestra tries to impersonate another and is foiled, the intended victim being the hero's band. In "Gold Diggers In Paris" one dance troupe impersonates another and gets away with it, unethically but satisfactorily if, as you're supposed to be, you're on the hero's side.

* * *

The new "Gold Diggers," like its predecessors, is a combination of girls, gags, specialties and tunes in a story that doesn't matter much anyway. Some of its humor is strained, most of it depends on the able rescue work of Hugh Herbert, Allen Jenkins, Melville Cooper, Fritz Feld, Ed Brophy and Curt Bois, all spotted in supporting roles. Also loudly present is the Schnickelfritz band, hot, corny and comic.

Rudy Vallee, singing as usual, a little less wooden than usual in his acting, very funny in his imitation of Chevalier, is the hero, in love with Rosemary Lane. When Gloria Dickson, the heavy, is on the screen you can forget Rudy and Rosie and watch a girl who ought to get better assignments than this one. (She had one, remember, in "They Won't Forget.") Ray Enright directed, with Busby Berkeley doing the dances. Zippiest tune: "I Wanna Go Back to Bali."

* * *

National Air Mail Week was as good a time as any to recall how Pola Negri—or her press agent—when Rudolph Valentino was on his death-bed in New York, talked of having herself sent to him via air mail. . . . Those were the days—the days of something or other. . . .

Mrs. Clarence Stuhldreher Guest Speaker at Junior Sorosis Meeting; Program Committee for Next Year Appointed.

For the demonstration Mrs. Stuhldreher then arranged a low bowl of snapdragons, iris, fever few and daisies to show the effect which may be gained with garden bouquets.

The tailored leaf print modeled here is a fair sample of the snappy little print frocks being shown. This is a smooth rayon crepe with navy ground and white leaf design printed thereon. The skirt is knife pleated all around below a fitted and belted waistline. The neckline is soft and tied, and the sleeves short and perky. A wide navy hat, short pullover white gloves and blue pumps complete a very chic little costume.

Wife Speaks On Husband's Affairs

By VIRGINIA LEE

I frequently have letters from young women who are very much in love with married men, as you know.

One peculiarity of most of these women is that they seem to think that the wife should step out of the picture because the husband no longer loves them—or thinks he doesn't. "Would you want to hold on to a man who no longer wanted you?" asked one girl of me.

Circumstances alter cases, of course, and we can lay down no rules that will cover every case, but after receiving this letter from a wife, I wondered if it wouldn't be a good idea to print at least part of it to show the wife's side to these young women who seem to think their own love is the all-important thing.

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: I must write, as I cannot keep back any longer, as I read about girls who write telling of a love for a married man. I am not in love with another man, only my husband, but he became enamored with an old sweetheart. Our home was happy until this started and God knows who was to blame, if it was he or she. One thing is certain they have both sinned."

"My heart has ached constantly and 'dripped blood,' as it were, for a number of years, ever since this started, and I still believe they see each other, but not to be together.

"Their hearts ache, too, because of the sin, but mine because of the broken home. I have gone through hell. He was a loving, considerate husband until he played the fool; now his heart condemns him and he is miserable.

"At times I was so distracted I would almost lose all control of myself and an almost uncontrollable urge would take possession of me and I would think of taking my own and the children's lives, but thank God that he does overrule such thoughts. Such conduct as theirs is robbery, and if it caused suicide or murder what would they think?

"A CRUCIFIED WIFE."

"I wish I could scream these words into the ears of those who are guilty of such conduct."

There you have the feelings of a wife whose husband had temporarily, at least, deserted her for another woman. Reading it may give some girl strength to take herself out of the path of a man who seems attracted to her and she to him. It is not pleasant to think of causing another woman such mental anguish, is it?

HOROSCOPE

For Friday, May 27.

Judging by the lunar directions, this should be a very lively and progressive day, with employment offering opportunity, finances increasing and much stirring in writings, publicity and promotions. But there is need for caution in handling papers lest there be a loophole for fraud.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves engulfed in a year of conflicting circumstances, with favorable business contacts and pleasant social relations. Powerful friends may play an important part in each association, but at the same time, there are omens of fraud, treachery and loss through legal entanglements or misrepresentation.

A child born on this day may be particularly versatile and talented, with much shrewdness and sagacity, and certain inclinations toward expediency.

Stoppers may be held securely in bottles when traveling if a piece of adhesive tape is placed over them and around the neck of the bottle.

A pinch of baking powder added to pie crust makes it light and fluffy.

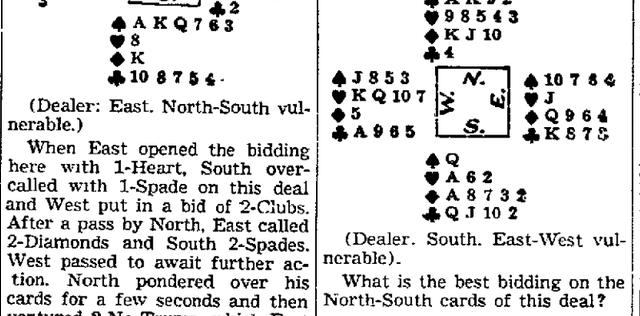
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

TRICKS ARE NEEDED

ABILITY to stop the opponents' suits is only part of what you require to make no trump contracts. The other part is the taking of the tricks dealt to your side. If you can't get at them because of inability to transfer the lead from your hand to dummy or vice versa, you are like a boxer whose defense is fair but can't punch.



(Dealer: East. North-South vulnerable.)

When East opened the bidding here with 1-Heart, South overcalled with 1-Spade on this deal and West put in a bid of 2-Clubs. After a pass by North, East called 2-Diamonds and South 2-Spades. West passed to await further action. North pondered over his cards for a few seconds and then ventured 2-No Trump, which East doubled.

A heart was led to the K, then another to East's Q. After he cashed the heart A, a heart was led to declarer's J. That unfortunate then tried a diamond with the hope of getting into dummy. East dumped in with the A, however, and cashed his remaining heart. A club was led to West's A and he returned a club to North, who had nothing left but diamonds. He cashed the Q and led a diamond to East, who took his J and 10. The last two tricks were won with dummy's spake A and K.

The result of North's 2-No Trumps bid was a set of three tricks, doubled, whereas South would have been set only one at 2-Spades.

* * *

Tomorrow's Problem.

(Dealer. South. East-West vulnerable).

What is the best bidding on the North-South cards of this deal?

To remove grass stains from washable materials, rub the stain with lard and let stand for several hours. This loosens the coloring matter so it will wash out.

(Central Press Writer on Beauty)

WITH SKIRTS reaching a new high this summer and shorts being so much the thing for beach and sports, you can't rest on your laurels no matter how trim your ankles are. You've just got to have a well-turned calf.

Girls have worried about fat legs for ages and physical directors and beauty columnists have rushed to their aid with all the sympathy in the world. But nobody seems to worry about the girls with the spindly legs. They just seem to have been completely overlooked And it's a real shame because lots of you with thin legs would really have lovely figures if you could put a bit of shape onto those lower limbs.

Exercise is just about the only way you can round the contours of thin and shapeless legs. It isn't a quick process, so don't get discouraged if you don't see immediate results. But one thing about developing the legs is that lots of beneficial exercises can be done out of doors Dancing, walking, bicycling and tennis will do much to help develop your legs, but to get results sooner you should also do leg exercises at home.

When you do leg exercises you should always remember to keep your knees stiff. Never exercise with the knee muscles relaxed. A well shaped leg is judged by a high calf and a flat knee. Making your knee muscles rigid will help to flatten the knee and raise your calf muscles.

Makes Muscles Sore.

At first walking with your knee muscles stiff will make you feel sore down the entire length of your legs. But don't let this depress you. It just shows that you are getting the right muscles working. Try to remember to walk around the house and up and down stairs on tiptoe. Don't wear high heels when you are doing this. Moccasins or house slippers are best.

Here are some definite exercises that should be done daily in addition to your outdoor sports and your still-kneed tiptoeing. As we said before, it does take a spot of doing to get those leg curves. But it's really worthwhile, because once attained it will be no trick at all to keep lovely legs.

Stand erect, with your weight on both feet. Put your hands on your hips and rise on your toes, lifting the heels as high as possible off the floor. Now return to your starting position. With the weight on your heels lift your toes in the air. Do this 20 times.

Second movement: Stand erect with your hands on your hips. Do a stationary running step, lifting your knees as high as possible with your toes pointed downward Do not do this long enough to tire yourself at first, but lengthen the time for the exercise as you become accustomed to the exertion.

If you are conscientious about your supplementary homework you'll be rewarded with well rounded calves and you'll be wishing for even shorter kilties instead of deploring the new fashion trends.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

Junior's query brought home to me with dismal emphasis not only Dicky's absence but his inexplicable silence.

When he had left me just outside the Grand Central parkway, whither he had trailed me after my telephone encounter with the woman at his art magazine office, he had said that he would make every possible effort to come out to welcome the children. He said, in any case, he would telephone me during the day what he intended to do. I had been so absorbed in the hectic housecleaning imposed by my mother-in-law that I had given little thought to the fact that there had been no word from him, and my boy's words set me to worrying.

Could something have happened to him? I asked myself, remembering the sinister fact of the gangster companion of the mysterious woman who apparently had some hold upon my husband. Then I pulled myself together, for, with the psychic sixth sense of childhood, my boy was looking anxiously at me.

"Is Daddy sick?" he demanded. "Or, has something happened to him that you're not telling me? There was a boy Hank knew at school whose father died and they didn't tell him until he had to go home to the funeral. Tell me, quick. Is Daddy—"

Reassures Him.

"No, no! Your father is perfectly well and all right." How devoutly I prayed that I was telling the truth! "But he's terribly busy, and he said he'd come out the first minute he could, and that he'd telephone some time tonight if he could not come. So we must just be patient."

"Gee!" The expression of relief apparently came clear from his shoe soles. "I s'pose I'm silly. Bill says I am, but I've been sort of bothered ever since Hank told me about that boy at school."

Something deep within me sounded a bell of warning, a remembrance of Hank's young boyhood, his propensity for teasing which went beyond the bounds of ordinary boyish mischief.

"Didn't Bill know the boy, too, if he were at the school?" I asked in a carefully casual fashion.

"Sure he did," Junior replied as, our journey down the hall finished, I unlocked the door of his father's room and ushered him in. "But ole Bill never said a word about it, 'cause he figured I might get to be worrying about Dad. He's awful white, Bill is. And did he give Hank the deuce for telling me about it! I heard him dragging Hank over the coals when he thought me and Rod—Rod and I"—he corrected himself meticulously—"were asleep. He told him he ought to be ashamed of himself to torture a kid like that—said he belonged back in the — in the ink—"

He looked at me helplessly, and I mechanically supplied the missing word.

Madge Complimented.

"The inquisition?" I queried.

"Yep, that's it," he exclaimed, relieved "Gee! but you're smart, Mums."

"Thank you," I replied without knowing what I was saying, and my young son giggled.

"You said that awful funny," he commented, and I stooped and kissed him.

"I want you to stay here by yourself for a few minutes," I said. "I must see to Roderick and the others. Lock the door behind me, and don't meddle with Daddy's things."

"May I look at that stack of drawings?" he said, indicating a pile on the table in the corner. "Daddy lets me sometimes."

"Yes, if you're careful of them," I assented, glad to give him anything to occupy his attention. Then I left him, hearing the key click in the lock behind me, and knowing that there was no danger of a clash between him and either Hank or Roderick while I was gone.

I met Roderick in the hall, told him to be careful of the shower—he is untidy as are all small boys—and told him also to stay in my room after he was dressed until I came back. Then I went on to the nursery where Katherine was giving Faith a bath. She took one glance at my face and waved me to a chair.

"Sit ye down," she commanded, "and possess your soul in patience. I'll spoon you all the lentils as soon as I get our princess clothed and start her on her supper."

RAISIN PIE.—One and one-half cups seeded raisins, one and one-half cups boiling water, one-half cup sugar, one tablespoon cornstarch, one tablespoon lemon juice, one teaspoon grated lemon rind, one-half cup of nut meats, a few grains of salt. Wash raisins, drain and add boiling water. Blend sugar and cornstarch and add raisin and boiling water mixture to them slowly, stirring it in carefully. Add lemon juice, rind, salt and nut meats. Cook over a low heat, stirring constantly until mixture is thickened and clear. Cool. Line pie pan with pastry, turn in raisin mixture, lace strips of pastry over the top and bake in a hot oven, 450 degrees Fahrenheit, 35 to 40 minutes, or until crisp and nicely browned.

If your stock of jelly, jam or marmalade has given out make some rhubarb jam. It is delicious to serve now, and you can make enough to last until next winter.

SPRING MARMALADE — Two pounds rhubarb, one can crushed pineapple, five cups sugar. Cut rhubarb as for pie. Mix ingredients and stir over low heat to dissolve sugar. Boil at same heat 30 minutes, stirring as little as possible, to keep rhubard pieces whole. Made while rhubarb is young and tender, this marmalade is flavorful and of a pretty pink color.

STUFFED POTATOES — Bake six large, smooth potatoes, then, with a sharp knife cut each in two lengthwise, scoop out potato with spoon, and mash light and fine, being careful not to break the skin. Add half cup boiling milk, one tablespoon butter, beaten whites of two eggs, and season with pepper and salt. Fill each half potato with the mixture, cover the potatoes with the beaten whites of two more eggs, and brown in the oven.

Keep a list of can sizes and their contents. Buffet or picnic sizes hold one cup. Other sizes are: No. 1—one and one-third cups; No. 1 teall—two cups; No. 2—two and one-half cu ps; No. 2½—three and one-half cu ps; No. 3—four cups (one quart.)

Learn New Dance Steps By Self-Help Method.

Easy to Tango Perfectly.

"How divinely you dance!" Ted whispers.

And does Nancy feel elated as she matches her steps to his, in a smooth, glamorous tango!

She's forgotten how she used to dread parties, she fumbled her dancing so badly. That was before she started to practice at home, learning all the newest turns and changes from simple footprint diagrams.

Surprising how quickly she brought her dancing up to date with steps like the lovely Tango Rock in our photograph:

1—Step forward on left foot. 2—Step forward on right foot. AND—Shift weight back to left foot; do not move right foot from its position. 3—Quickly shift weight forward to right foot.

You, too, can teach yourself to dance perfectly. Our 32-page booklet gives diagrams and easy step-by-step directions for shag, foxtrot, waltz, tango, rumba. Basic steps. Newest variations.

Ever Wonder Why You're Constipated?

Do you ever have days when you just have to drag yourself along, when you feel tired, sunk—because of that constipation? Then why not find out the real cause of your trouble?

What have you had to eat lately? Just things like meat, bread and potatoes? If that's it, you may not have to look any farther. It's likely your trouble is you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean a lot of food. It means a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and aids elimination.

If "bulk" is what you lack your ticket is a dish of crisp crunchy Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast every day. It contains the "bulk" you need plus Nature's great intestinal tonic, vitamin B1.

Eat it every day, drink plenty of water, and join the regulars! Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

TARIFF LEAGUE SEEKS TO GAIN FARM SUPPORT

Old Organization Revived to Combat Lowering of Import Duties.

By United Press

FRESNO, Cal.—California farm and industrial leaders are recruiting members for the Growers Tariff league to protest eventually on a nation-wide scale the lowering of American tariffs on foreign agricultural products.

The league was organized here. Its aim is to protect farmers from the competition of imported foodstuffs. In reality, it is a revival of a body, inactive for many years, that waged a war on tariff-lowering policies of previous administrations.

Similar organizations are making a specific attack at the proposed reciprocal trade treaties now being negotiated by Secretary of State Cordell Hull.

Publisher Heads Group.

Included among supporters of the new group are representatives of such powerful farm organizations as the California Almond Growers Exchange, the California Fig Institute, the Associated Farmers of California, Inc., and the California Prune and Apricot Growers Association. John E. Pickett, of San Francisco, publisher of the Pacific Rural Press, a weekly farm paper, is chairman.

E. Clement Horst of San Francisco, a large-scale grower, declared in a speech at the recent organizing convention here that "now is the time to enter a formal, organized protest against the administration's policy of lowering import duties . . . The reciprocity treaties would only increase the harm to agriculture resulting from our present low-tariff policy."

Fear Widespread Injury.

Other speakers pointed out that the reciprocal pacts and the resulting increase in agricultural imports threaten widespread injury and in some cases ruin, to American growers.

C. A. Hawkins, of Fresno, long a foe of low tariffs, declared that "business conditions in this country, at their present low level, as well as damage done to industrial trends and lowered agricultural prices, can be attributed to tariff rate cuts."

Leaders of the anti-tariff body plan to extend the league's membership and influence to a nation-wide scale as organization details are completed.

FIRST GIRL EDITOR

CORVALLIS, Ore.—(U.P.)—A girl will edit a major campus publication for the first time in the history of Oregon State college. Miss Lois Williams, Corvallis, was appointed editor of the 1939 yearbook.

FACE ARREST

50 Cigaret Dealers Without New Licenses, Warned.

More than 50 cigaret dealers in Richland county who have failed to renew their licenses faced arrest today if they continue to sell. County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe's records showed that only 331 of the 385 retail vendors in the county have obtained permits for 1938-39. The old permits expired Tuesday. All of the six wholesale dealers in the county have renewed their licenses, the auditor said.

Retail permits are $25 each while wholesalers must pay $100 a year for their licenses. The new permits are good until next May 23.

TOO MUCH SINEW COSTLY

OAKLAND, Cal.—(U.P.)— Stanford Stanley really didn't know he was so strong. His automobile stalled; he gave it an encouraging push with his right arm and it went over the railing and fell to the bottom of a 300 foot canyon, a complete wreck.
